UNCLE SAM TO THE RESCUE!

POLICE RESERVES ARE CALLED OUT

3 BANKS SUSPEND

Developments of Day in Wall St. Crisis

Three banks suspend, dozen others sustain heavy runs.

Roosevelt, fearing panic will dim glory of his administration, decides at conference to back Wall Street with Treasury millions, and gives Cortelyou full power.

John D. Rockefeller, declaring values sound, promises all his resources to save the financial situation.

Morgan and Secretary Cortelyou, by united action, avert further failures, and raise $75,000,000 relief fund to boost banks.

Treasury head deposits $15,000,000 government cash in national banks.

Attorney-General Jackson begins investigation of loans made by failed Knickerbocker Trust Company.

Financiers of America, forgetting feuds, unite at conference in Morgan's office to restore confidence.

Governor Hughes names Clark Williams, vice-president Columbia Trust Company, as Superintendent of Banks.

Frenzied Depositors Rush to Demand Money in Increasing Numbers, Storming the Doors of a Dozen Great New York Institutions—Big Financiers Work With Government to Stay Panic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—At noon three New York banks had suspended; runs are in full force on a dozen other institutions, while in the Bronx and Harlem police reserves have been called out to keep in order hundreds of small depositors who, fearful that their savings will be swept away, are storming the banks' doors.

The Hamilton Bank, the Twelfth Ward Bank and the Empire Savings Company of Harlem are the institutions that have closed their doors. More than fifteen million dollars of depositor's money is involved.

Harlem and Bronx in Uproar.

Harlem and the Bronx is in an uproar. Timid depositors are flocking to the various banks here with pass books in their hands and drawing out thir funds. The closing of the Hamilton and Twelfth Ward is a severe blow to the business men who have running accounts in the institutions. It is feared several mercantile establishments will be in difficulty as a result.

The Trust Company of America continues unchecked, and the line of depositors extends for blocks. They are being paid off at the rate of one minute and Treasurer Fonda says he has plenty of money on hand.

The Clearing House committee is in session prepared to consider applications for aid that may be made. President James Stillman of the National City Bank is present.

CALL OUT POLICE RESERVES.

Hundreds of depositors thronged the streets outside the Lincoln Trust Company at No. 208 Fifth avenue, notwithstanding the assurances of the officers that the institution was able to pay all depositors.

Even at daylight the worried depositors commenced to arrive at the bank and by 9 o'clock the crowd was so great that the police reserves were called out.

Inside the bank the officials had piled huge bundles of currency on the desks and tables in the paying teller's cages, but this did not turn anxious depositors away.

FEAR FOR OTHER BANKS.

At many of the smaller savings banks crowds are withdrawing their savings. Financiers fear that run may be started on a score or more of banks if the panic grows.

The State banking department is now in charge of the Hamilton Bank and its branches, the Twelfth Ward Bank and the Empire Savings Bank.

Conferences between the leading financiers are being hastily held. J. P. Morgan and President Stillman of the National City Bank have just left the Clearing House. They took a cab together.

There are again today numerous conferences at various points in the financial district, at which practically every leading banker in New York is present.

"FIRST TWO HOURS WILL TELL"

J. P. Morgan to-day said: "The first two hours will tell the tale. We have done all we can. I hope for the best."

"Can't you say anything more reassuring?" he was asked.

"I can say nothing more," replied the great financier. "This is no time to talk. It is a time for action."

Morgan seemed very nervous from the heavy strain he has been under.

The Hamilton bank was the first to suspend to-day. Then the Twelfth Ward followed. As soon as the Empire Savings learned of the action of the Hamilton, it took advantage of the State law that depositors give sixty days notice of withdrawal of accounts.

Rockfeller to Rescue.

John D. Rockefeller declared to-day that he would put all his resources at the command of Wall street to save the financial situation.

President Roosevelt, fearing that the result of an extended panic will dim the glory of his administration, has promised unlimited Treasury aid to financiers in good standing.

J. Pierpont Morgan and Secretary Cortelyou have pledged a relief fund of $75,000,000 in cash. Cortelyou has already released $25,000,000 to national bank depositaries.

At the Hamilton Bank, from which Mr. E. R. Thomas was forced to resign as president on Monday, the following notice was posted on the door at No. 215 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street:

"This bank is absolutely solvent. In justice to all depositors it has suspended payments until public confidence in banking institutions is restored."

This created great excitement among hundreds of angry depositors at the entrances.

DEPOSITORS OUT AT DAYBREAK.

Many clerks with bank books in their hands awaited the opening many other financial institutions before daylight, but nowhere was there an indication of any such volume of withdrawals as at the Trust Company of America yesterday.

Heavily guarded wagons began rumbling through the streets long before sunrise, bringing to the bewildered institutions big instalments of the funds released from the sub-treasury by Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou.

SUSPENSION OF THREE BANKS GIVES DEPOSITORS SCARE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—As soon as the officers and directors of the Empire City Savings Bank at No. 231 West 125th street, adjoining the Hamilton Bank, learned that the latter had suspended, they hurriedly

WOMAN HELD IN $10,000 ON THEFT ACCUSATION

MRS. REED, IN COURT, FACES CHARGE MADE BY HER SON-IN-LAW.

Accused of stealing $5,500 in cash from her son-in-law, Dr. John F. Kimball, of No. 58 West Rutland square, and suspected of having opened the doctor's safe and removed cash, bankbooks and jewelry to the value of $24,000, Mrs. Anna W. Reed of No. 271 Tremont street was before Judge Murray in the second session of the Municipal Criminal Court to-day, and was held in $10,000 bail until next Wednesday.

Her counsel, Attorney Lugeo, endeavored to have the bail placed at $5,000, but double that amount was demanded when Attorney J. T. Ambarch, who represents Dr. Kimball, pointed out that the police inspectors had to go out of Massachusetts to look for Mrs. Reed.

Late to-day Mrs. Reed had been unable to secure bondsmen.

Declaring that he had been robbed while in Greenville, Vt., October 17, where he had been called by a note to see his wife, the doctor placed the matter in the hands of the police on his return, Monday, and the arrest yesterday afternoon was the result.

Asserting that she, and not her mother, was guilty of taking the safe, with its contents, Mrs. Kimball, wife of the doctor, begged the officers to lock her up instead of the older woman, but, after an exhaustive examination, Mrs. Reed was held, the officers believing that Mrs. Kimball was not implicated in the matter.

Seek Another Woman.

Inspector Cronin has been engaged on the case since the return of the doctor from Vermont, and it is said that another arrest will be made to-day, the police believing that another woman may know something about the removal of the safe.

According to the story told by the inspector, Dr. Kimball received a note asking him to go to Greenville to see his wife. Shortly after his departure, a wagon backed up to No. 58 West Rutland square and, according to the landlady, Mrs. Mary Nevins, the safe, pianola, bed, sofa, and other furnishings were taken out.

When Dr. Kimball returned he notified the police that the furniture and safe had been taken. Inspector Cronin located the man who had removed the articles and finally traced them to a storage warehouse.

Find Safe Opened.

The safe was found opened and, the doctor asserts, five $1,000 bills, $500 in one dollar bills, jewelry worth $4000, and bankbooks with deposits of $18,000 were missing.

From information he secured Inspector Cronin charges that Mrs. Reed was responsible for the removal of the property from the West Rutland square house, and yesterday afternoon he took her into custody on a warrant.

In the course of his investigation, the detective found, he claims, that the safe had been taken to an expert and opened. To-day the police are seeking this safe man to question him in regard to the case.

While the police hunt was going on, payment was ordered stopped on the bankbooks.

Woman a Clairvoyant.

Mrs. Reed conducts a lodging house at No. 271 Tremont street. She told the officer who booked her at headquarters that her age was forty-five years. It is stated that she is a card reader and clairvoyant in addition to her duties conducting the lodging house.

Dr. Kimball was formerly a well-known physician in Everett. He came to this city about four years ago and located at the West Rutland square address.

Yesterday, when his mother-in-law was being examined at police headquarters, he arrived in an automobile and was present during the questioning, as was also his wife, both refused to discuss the case for publication.

SON GUILTY; MOTHER FREE

MILFORD, Pa., Oct. 25.—A verdict of manslaughter was returned to-day against Benjamin Courtright, twenty-two, for the killing of Harvey Cross, a farmer. Courtright's mother, seventy-five years old, was acquitted.

HAND CRUSHED AT LAUNDRY

Mrs. Samuel Quelan of Hyde Park, employed in the Dedham Steam Laundry, Highstreet, had her right hand badly crushed to-day while at work.

BARTLETT MEN WILL FIGHT TO THE FINISH

REAL CONTEST IS OVER DELEGATES TO NEXT NATIONAL CONVENTION.

General Charles W. Bartlett has issued a statement, which the AMERICAN yesterday and the day before announced that he would issue, declaring that he will remain a candidate until the polls close.

General Bartlett in his statement declares that he is technically and legally the candidate of the Democratic party, and that the decision of the Ballot Law Commissioners was not in accordance with the testimony given at the hearing.

General Bartlett in this statement not only accuses the Ballot Law Commission of being corrupt and influenced by base motives, but he also makes the same charge against all the newspapers.

Mr. Bartlett's name will appear at the head of the ticket with the designation "Anti-Merger." Because of the fact that it is at the head of the ticket, and that "Anti-Merger" follows his name, the men who have induced Bartlett to remain in the fight hope that he will be able to poll a respectable vote.

The Bartlett candidacy is merely preliminary to the real fight in the Democratic party which will come when delegates are elected to the next National Convention.

The fight, begun now by the Bartlett men will be continued next Spring and a contesting delegation, headed by George Fred Williams, will be sent to the National Convention.

Although the Bartlett faction will contest the seats of the delegates elected by the Whitney men there is little doubt but that both sides will favor the nomination of William J. Bryan for President. The fight will not be a fight over Bryan, but it will be a fight over the next National State Committeeman from Massachusetts, and over the future control in this State of the poor old Democratic party.

Actions speak louder than words.

STEAMSHIPKING MORSE DETHRONED IN CRASH

STANDARD OIL AND NEW HAVEN WREST CONTROL OF BIG CONSOLIDATED LINES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—That the real reason for the smash of stocks in Wall street, causing the suspension and failures of so many banks is the direct result of Standard Oil and the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad fighting Charles W. Morse to the wall is to-day the outspoken belief of Wall street.

The "breaking" of Morse has been all but accomplished. He has been stripped of his banks after the stocks in which they were heavily interests were thumped upon the market faster than they could be bought in, and now his Consolidated Steamship Lines Company is to be wrested from him and Morse placed in a powerless and subordinate position.

The Consolidated Steamship Lines Company is to be reorganized and the different companies composing it are to again pass under their former control. It is said that the new plan will be ready for formal adoption within two or three days, certainly not more than a week hence.

To Force Morse Out.

The tentative plan is to have Mr. Morse retire to the sole control of the lines he brought into the combination. Securities that have been issued against the capital stock of all parts of the trust are to stand for the time being as still a readjustment of the financial situation makes possible a retirement or an assumption of responsibility by individual companies for the securities outstanding.

All told, $124,000,000 worth of bonds and shares have been issued in the name of the Consolidated Steamship Lines Company. The trust is capitalized at $50,000,000. These are the companies in the combination, their capital and the valuations at which their properties were taken up by Morse:

	Stocks.	Bonds.
Eastern Steamship Company	$2,000,000	$2,000,000
Metropolitan Steamship Company	3,000,000	3,000,000
Clyde Steamship Company	14,000,000	14,000,000
Albany Line	14,000,000	14,000,000
Bay Line	20,000,000	20,000,000
New York and Porto Rico Line	8,000,000	8,000,000

Morse incorporated the trust under the laws of Maine, his home State. As the organization stands to-day it controls the outside and inland traffic of practically all the Atlantic Coast.

Beaten by New Haven.

In April last Morse reached for the Fall River passenger and freight lines of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company. He bid $20,000,000 for them, but was turned down.

The Consolidated Steamship securities have been heavily sold since then and the present financial distress and shaken confidence set in. Its common was closed yesterday afternoon at 18¾, bonds sold Tuesday at 12.

THREE MORE BANKS YIELD TO STRAIN

held a conference and decided to take advantage of the thirty-day clause in their charter and suspend payments for that period.

The president of the Empire City Bank is Isaac A. Hopper, Tammany politician and former leader of the Thirty-first Assembly District. He was present at the meeting of the directors in the office of the bank to-day and advocated the suspension. The news that the Empire City Bank had taken advantage of the thirty-day non-payment clause spread swiftly throughout Harlem. In the course of a short time scores of men and women, mostly working people and those on small salaries, flocked to the bank building.

The New Amsterdam National Bank yesterday gave notice that it would not clear for the Twelfth Ward Bank because Bankers express the opinion that the Twelfth Ward Bank has been well managed and is in a perfectly solvent condition. It is thought the State Banking Department in closing the institution did so on account of the run and it had to safeguard depositors.

The Twelfth Ward, on Twenty-fifth street and Lexington avenue, has a paid up capital of $200,000, the surplus and profits are estimated at $221,000. There are due to bank $165,000; individual deposits total $3,000,000 and loans and discounts about $2,400,000.

The Hamilton Bank has a paid-up capital of $200,000, surplus and profits of $282,270 individual deposits of $7,000,000, loans and discounts, $4,662,000.

The bank's main office is at No. 215 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and it has numerous branches, including one at One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street and Seventh avenue, No. 765 Tremont avenue, No. 194 White Plains avenue, No. 1167 Amsterdam avenue, One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, east of Willis avenue, and One Hundred and Sixty-third street and Third avenue.

William R. Montgomery was elected president in place of E. H. Thomas on Monday, and Frederick D. Dean, vice-president and Jesse R. C. Joy cashier.

Thomas Shapter, is president of the Twelfth Ward Bank, G. R. Brown and William T. Purdy vice-presidents, and Frank R. French cashier. The main office is located at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Lexington avenue, with branches at One Hundred and Sixteenth street and 1927 Third avenue.

MILLIONS IN WALL STREET FUND AIDS PRICES IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Millions were poured into the stock market at the opening to-day and everything offered was purchased in the interests of the combining of bankers that has undertaken to stop the panic.

Liquidation was on a very extensive scale, but the ready market which securities found allayed excitement and the selling proceeded in a very orderly manner.

There was no demand whatever on the part of the public, and dealings were confined to a manipulative character. There were limited gains of 2 points in Southern Pacific, a point in Union Pacific, 1½ in Steel, 1⅜ in Great Northern preferred, nearly a point in Reading and fractional gains elsewhere.

Cotton market opened steadier 3 to 8 points higher.

Before entering the service of the Hide and Leather Bank he was a national bank examiner for a number of years.

FUGITIVE RUN DOWN IN WILD CHASE OF 500

"Stop Thief" Starts Spectacular Pursuit Throughout Business Section.

CAPTURED BY POLICEMAN

With his pursuers at his heels, Joseph Silverman, said to be a clever express thief, who claims New York city as his home, was chased through the business section of the city to-day, and after running five blocks was captured and placed under arrest by Patrolman Daniel Cameron of the Court square station.

While the driver of one of the American Express Company's teams was delivering a bundle in one of the Chauncy street dry goods houses, Silverman, in company with a poorly dressed companion, was seen to slide a small box out of the team and place it under his arm. A passer-by shouted "Stop thief," whereupon the two men started at full speed up Summer street. A great crowd followed. Silverman turned into Washington street and ran toward Franklin, while his companion disappeared in the crowd.

Patrolman Cameron, the crossing officer at the corner of Washington and Summer streets, joined in the chase and finally caught Silverman at the corner of Franklin and Arch streets.

'LOT OF FOOLS,' SAYS SUSPECT

"Dr." Edward Everett Smith appeared in court to-day to answer to the charge of larceny of $600 from Mrs. Mary E. Henry, a widow, who lives at No. 48 Waltham street, four years ago. The Boston police believe his right name is James C. Hart. The Washington officials say that he is Thomas W. Goetts, once a page in the House of Representatives, friend of congressmen and who married the daughter of a well-known citizen of the capital.

Smith's counsel is James Purcell.

The case was brought back from Philadelphia to-day by Inspector Mosher who arrested Smith on the train from the Keystone boundary after serving a sentence for larceny.

"There are lots of fools in this world and I've caught many of them in my time," Chief Inspector Watts said "Dr." Smith told him during the long talk they had in the chief's office.

HUNT TWO SUSPECTS AS WOMAN'S SLAYERS

ARREST IN PAWTUCKET TRAGEDY SOON EXPECTED; HUSBAND IDENTIFIES BODY.

Special to the Boston American.
PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 24.—The police are now convinced that Mrs. Amelia Desmarais of Attleboro, whose body was found Tuesday night under the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad bridge at Cole street, in the Pleasant View section of this city, was murdered. Not a trace of her jewelry nor her pocketbook was found on her person.

The belief that it is a case of murder has been further strengthened by the statements of two women who saw Mrs. Desmarais Tuesday afternoon, walking toward the Cole street bridge with two young men. Both several years her junior. They profess think that the men enticed her to the bridge, and after robbing her of her valuables, struck her with a blunt instrument, fracturing her skull. A description of the men has been furnished the police, and an arrest is expected tonight.

Mrs. Desmarais was identified last night by her husband. Tuesday she left Attleboro, where she was a fashionable dress maker, to do some shopping in this city. When she failed to return home Tuesday night her husband was not alarmed, as he believed her to be in Providence with relatives. Yesterday he came here to attend a meeting of the Ladies' Union and later visited the morgue. He was not in Providence. After the meeting last night he heard of a woman being killed here. He visited the undertaking establishment where the body had been removed and there identified it as that of his wife.

Mrs. Desmarais was forty years old and leaves besides her husband, two children, a son and a daughter.

POMMERN BEAT FRENCH BALLOON BY SIX MILES

OFFICIAL AERO FIGURES GIVE GERMANS VICTORY IN BIG RACE.

By Boston American Leased Wire.
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A partial announcement, which is official, of the St. Louis balloon race was made by the officials of the Aero Club of America to-day. Figures are complete on only four balloons, as follows:

Pommern, Germany, 876¾ miles.
L'Isle de France, France, 870¾ miles.
America, U. S., 753⅝ miles.
United States, U. S., 625⅛ miles.

It thus appears that the Pommern has won, although L'Isle de France has disputed its claim.

Count L'Isle de France landed yesterday forenoon, some of it said not reaching until late, from Honeyerville, N. J., where the balloon descended. Dispatches announcing the landing of Paul Meckel's Aeronaut at Manassas, Va., followed a short time later. Considering the size of the gas bag—only 50,000 cubic feet—it is considered to have done remarkably well. Meckel said before the start that he did not hope to win with so small a balloon, but entered the race for the fun of it.

The other racers landed at various points between Caledonia, Ontario, on the North, and Prince William, Va., on the South. None broke the world's record for flight—1,200 miles, held by Count Henry De La Vaux, but this was not made in a contest. Several, however, broke the Count's duration record of forty-one hours, forty-five minutes. Little De France captured the honors in this line, being last to leave the sky.

37 HORSES BURNED.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Thirty-seven horses were roasted to death in an early morning blaze in the stables of Nicholas Nagle's livery stable and Peterson garage. Fifteen other animals were saved by the prompt action of the firemen.

BOY BURGLAR GETS MERCY AT MORAN'S HANDS

CASE IS "NOL PROSSED"

District Attorney John B. Moran extended official clemency to one of the youngest persons ever arrested in this city on the charge of burglary when he not pressed a case against nine-year-old Harry Murphy, who lives with his widowed mother in a tenement in the rear of No. 126 Havre street, East Boston, and is a pupil in an ungraded class in the Austin School.

Murphy and several other small boys are accused of breaking into a West Boston grocery store. He was found by a policeman sitting on the curb eating the crackers he had selected as his loot. The evidence against the child was considered and the boy burglar's only excuse was his appetite.

Lawyer Takes Up Case.

Nobody who would visit the home where the boy and his mother live would expect that the family could afford to pay a big lawyer's bill. But Attorney John Quinn of Ward 7 took up the case in kindness and carried the small culprit before District Attorney Moran.

"Are you going to prosecute this boy?" asked Quinn.

"What boy? I don't see any," said Moran, peering over his glasses. The nine-year-old prisoner had hidden himself behind the district attorney's desk. His tousled hair was just visible and the district attorney craned his neck.

"What have you been doing?" thundered the public prosecutor.

Then he got a good view of the boy and his voice fell like a watered stock on a cattle day.

"Tell me about it," said Moran huskily. Harry looked up in his face for about a minute before he found his voice. It came to him along with a grin. He got chumming with the District Attorney and talked with great confidence.

"Here, Mr. Doherty," said District Attorney Moran to Hugh Doherty, one of his assistants, "take this child out and show the life out of him. And then not prosecute the case. I could suffer no worse fate than District Attorney."

"Won't Do It Any More."

After Harry was out from the court house. He was seen there by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. He has to be alone much of the time, for his mother is poor and has to go out to work to earn the money to feed and clothe him.

"What did mr. Moran do to you?" the boy was asked.

"Nuthin'," said Harry. "He told me never to do it again and I promised I wouldn't. He's all right an' I'm goin' to make good."

CALL KAISER IN BIG GERMAN SCANDAL SUIT

His Testimony Is Demanded by Both Sides in Von Moltke Libel Case.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—The Kaiser's own testimony was demanded by General Count von Moltke at the opening of the civil court to-day to ascertain the latter innocent of the political plots charged against him by Editor Harden.

Harden having also summoned the Kaiser as a witness in his own behalf in the libel suit Von Moltke is pressing against him, the issue is put squarely up to the court, whose story will settle the truth or falsity of the charges against the circle of "Knights of the Round Table" practically born overnight, denounced with bated breath and grieved of the royal presence because of their military and civil powerlessness and banished from the court with orders not to appear in the Kaiser's presence again.

Justice Kern took under advisement a question whether William's testimony is needed. He will not appear in person, but if any case of royal privilege is urged as a witness, will give his deposition in writing to be submitted for reading at the trial.

Harden offered Dr. Isenbart, a surgeon of high repute, and other "knights" were guilty of a series of unmentionable acts. The names of some of the most important of the guilty circle of social ad conies he is being threatened by the Kaiser's friends in forcing officials to make these Kern signified his intention to hold a series of secret sessions before the end of the trial that an opportunity may be given for the Kaiser to raise the money without endangering the reputations of men who have not yet been found guilty of the alleged misconduct.

The press gallery also confirmed the denunciations to the "Knights," but declare openly that decadence is common in the ruling classes of the fatherland.

The civil courtroom was again packed to the doors to-day. General Count von Moltke, the nominal complainant, but the real defendant in the case, shows signs of the nervous strain.

Frau von Elbe, the count's divorced wife, has thus far told the most damaging story against him.

SAFE-BLOWERS AT GREENWOOD WRECK OFFICE

Burglars blew open the safe in the Greenwood depot on the Boston & Maine railroad between Melrose Highlands and Wakefield early to-day, wrecked the office, secured $25 in cash and many mileage books and tickets, and left without causing alarming a person in the town. They also made an attempt to wreck the express company's office, next door to the depot, but were frightened away.

It is believed that the safe blowing was at 2:45, as the clock had stopped at that time. A fast freight generally passes the station at that hour and it is thought that the burglars took this opportunity to set off the charge. Nitro glycerine was used.

Baggage Master Henry J. Morton discovered the burglary when he opened the office at 6 o'clock, found windows broken, the safe door on the other side of the room and the ticket racks torn to pieces. Entrance was secured through a side window.

MORAN PITIES SMALL "BURGLAR."

Henry F. Murphy, who was arrested on charge of breaking into East Boston store, and who was released on District Attorney's refusal to prosecute.

DENNISON CONTRADICTS HIMSELF, SAYS MORAN

DISTRICT ATTORNEY NAILS MORE CHARGES MADE BY "MACHINE" CANDIDATE.

District Attorney John B. Moran, Independence League candidate for re-election, has replied to the latest charges made against him by Joseph A. Denison, the nominee of the Democratic machine. Mr. Moran is replying to the charges in the numerical sequence in which they are made. Mr. Moran denies all the latest charges made by his opponent and now do not enclose with statements made by him about a year ago, when he said that Moran was the most honest, most humane, most successful and most fearless district attorney he ever knew of.

Taking up the Dennison charges in detail, District Attorney Moran says:

IN ADDITION TO THEIR UNPROVED CHARGES ALREADY ANSWERED I AM CHARGED:

TWENTY-FIFTH—With having been informed by Mr. Dwyer before he presented the cases to the Grand Jury that there was not sufficient evidence in the Ice cases as prepared by Mr. Yeaton.

This charge is false.

Neither he nor anyone else ever so informed me until months after he ceased to be assistant District Attorney, when I learned from Mr. Dwyer that in his opinion Mr. Dwyer's, after reading the typewritten evidence, there had not been sufficient evidence to convict offered to the Grand Jury.

Mr. Dennison says that he "presented the evidence to the Grand Jury following the Ice cases's instructions, as was my duty."

That I ever told him to secure an indictment upon insufficient evidence in any case is false.

But if he is now to be believed not only did I tell him to do so, but he actually did it. He makes a false accusation against me and also makes a false confession of his own offence.

Lauded District Attorney.

He falsely confesses himself unfit and falsely accuses me of being unfit for the office of District Attorney.

If this accusation against me were true, that excuse has he to offer for his eloquent speeches made in my behalf for Governor after he had ceased to be my assistant, in which he praised me as one of the most honest, most humane, most successful and most fearless District Attorney he ever knew of?

He was telling the truth then or he was in fact then in deceiving his public regarding me was infamous.

TWENTY-SIXTH—With having done in the Lawson-Barron libel cases what I certified Mr. Sughrue for doing in the Dock Trust cases.

This charge is false.

In the Dock Trust cases Mr. Sughrue allowed the defendants to appear before the Grand Jury and testify in their own defence in explanation of and contradiction of the Government evidence. For this I properly criticised him. This was not done in the Lawson-Barron cases.

Barron's case against Lawson for a libel was first presented to the Grand Jury.

Lawson's case against Barron for another libel was subsequently presented.

Lawson-Barron Case.

Mr. Dwyer presented both cases and, acting under my instruction, Lawson was not allowed to testify on the Barron charge and Barron was not allowed to testify on the Lawson charge. Thus the Grand Jury did not learn from either Barron or Lawson what their respective defences were.

If Lawson or Barron had been allowed to testify as to his defence to the other's charge, I would have been guilty of exactly what I condemned Mr. Sughrue for doing.

As I expressly prohibited it in my instructions to Mr. Dwyer, and as he followed my instructions it is apparent that the charge against me is false.

TWENTY-SEVENTH—With having received money not to participate in a political contest.

This charge is false.

TWENTY-EIGHTH—With having with-held evidence from the grand jury in the Ice cases.

This charge is false.

While every witness did not testify before the grand jury, every fact within the knowledge of the District Attorney was by some witness presented to the grand jury.

TWENTY-NINTH—With having caused the indictment of Doyle for political purposes.

This charge is false.

The now-papers having disclosed the fact that offers of bribery were made at the Common Council chamber, I summoned all witnesses supposed to have any knowledge, presented the entire evidence to the grand jury, explained to them the law and then left the jury room, returning to it only after being notified that the jury had argued it out and had voted to indict Doyle.

Instead of arresting Doyle and thus immediately him, I had his attorney notified to bring him in.

His attorney having asked me for a speedy trial, I agreed to give him one within ten days, whereas by putting his case in the numerical order on the list there would be no trial before the last of November and the court would have been powerless to interfere unless the defendant was confined in jail for want of bail.

"Square Deal" for Doyle.

Before the ten days had elapsed, Doyle and his attorney called and informed me that the finance commission had summoned Doyle to testify. This seemed to them to be unfair to Doyle, and I said: "I'll try your case next after the one now on trial, and you are to be here and not before the finance commission"; whereupon Doyle in gratitude said: "That's the square thing, John."

The trial took place, and I allowed Officer Lee to furnish Doyle's attorney with all the facts he knew of against Doyle in accordance with my auto-election pledge to give full knowledge of evidence favorable to the defendant."

I was summoned by the defendant and told the truth, although some of it injured the testimony of the Government witness, Harding.

The case was lost by the Government because Harding had, by his repeated denials outside the courtroom, destroyed in the jury's eyes his value as a witness.

I have dwelt at this length on this charge, but that I care for Doyle, but because I am unwilling to rest under a false allegation of unfaithfulness, for political or other purposes, treating any man.

JOHN B. MORAN.

STRIKE CRISIS IN PAWTUCKET MILLS TO-DAY

Employes' Committee in Conference with Coats Regarding Dismissed Union Woman.

Special to the Boston American.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 24.—On the outcome of the conference being held to-day between a committee representing 5,000 textile employes and Alfred Coats, depends the question of whether a great strike against the thread trust will be called for the sake of Mrs. Elizabeth Tuite. Mrs. Tuite, an employe of thirty-five years' standing, was recently discharged, the ostensible reason being in incompetence, the real one, according to the union people, being her activity in the cause of labor.

2,000 at Big Meeting.

At a great meeting held last night fully 2,000 employes were present, showing the deep interest taken in the case and the determination to make the fight on Mrs. Tuite's case a battle for union principles. That the thread trust discriminated against the woman because she was a union worker is firmly believed, and the leaders of the National Textile Union have taken up the case vigorously, with a view to the method of fighting the case "to a finish."

Mr. Coats, of the Thread Trust representative, refused to receive the first committee appointed to take up the case with him. It was a report from this committee which was discussed at last night's meeting.

Mr. Coats gave as his reasons for refusing to deal with the committee, the fact that it was composed of people who were not employed by him. Its membership had been selected among the leaders of the National Textile Union. Coats said he would only meet a committee of his employes before he would consent to discuss the case with Mrs. Tuite's discharge.

After a protracted and warm debate, it was agreed to yield to Coats's whim in the matter, and the committee, who are to-day in consultation with him, are all employes of the thread factories.

Public Is Anxious.

Pawtucket people are anxiously awaiting the outcome.

The seriousness of a strike in the big mills at this season can scarcely be overestimated, and business men are fervently hoping that the trouble will to be settled and that this remarkable fight for the sake of a woman will end in an agreement which will restore harmony and good feeling.

If it's correct, it's at Morse's.

The moth has his human counterpart.

Many a man has been "burned" by too close contact with cheap clothing—the kind that has low price for its sole attraction.

We've been making clothes for over 55 years and our experience has taught us that in the long run it is value that appeals to most men.

They want to feel that the money they spend will secure a fair return in style, style and fit. And they feel that clothing that doesn't give them that is worthless, however low its price.

It is for men of this description that Morse-made clothing is produced.

HISGEN AT RALLY DENOUNCES WHITNEY FOR DECEIVING VOTERS

DRAPER IS ALSO CONDEMNED FOR STAND AGAINST LABOR AT BIG PITTSFIELD RALLY

Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence League candidate for Governor, will be in the Berkshires to-night addressing a friendly audience at North Adams. Most of the League orators will take a night off in preparation for to-morrow's big series of important meetings. With Mr. Hisgen at North Adams, however, will be E. Garry Brown, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; Hon. Walter L. Ramsdell of Lynn and Clement L. Pollock, William A. Smith, president of the Central Labor Union of North Adams, will preside.

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 24.—Plain Tom Hisgen, of West Springfield, received a warm greeting in this city last evening when he made his first speech of the campaign in western Massachusetts.

The rally was held in the Academy of Music, which was well filled. The oc casion was enlivened by music furnished by St. Joseph's Band. The hall was profusely decorated. Many of those present were old friends of Mr. Hisgen, whom he has known in business. There were also many representatives of organized labor in the audience, and when the meeting was over many of these present went forward and shook the valiant trust-fighter by the hand.

Speeches were made by E. Garry Brown of Brockton, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on the Independence League ticket; Clement L. Pollock of Boston, and Hon. Walter L. Ramsdell, former Mayor of Lynn.

Mr. Hisgen arraigned the trusts for the present appalling prices of food necessities and Guild as a tool of the corporations, and Whitney for masquerading as a Democrat, when he was nothing but a Republican.

Mr. Brown scored the high prices and the conditions which prevailed at Hopedale, while Mr. Pollock showed that the merger of the New Haven and Boston & Maine railways would simply give the trust a better grip on this State.

HORAN PRAISES LEAGUE.

Patrick F. Horan of the Textile Union, the presiding officer of the meeting, in opening, said:

"New parties are necessary in order that the laboring man may receive justice at the hands of the legislators. Hence we are here to-night to listen to men of prominence discuss the principles of the only party in this State which guarantees the wage-earner a square deal.

Thomas L. Hisgen was enthusiastically received by the large audience. In opening he thanked the dealers and consumers and particularly the labor unions for their warm support of him in his fight against the Standard Oil Trust.

"I'm not unmindful of the great honor and responsibility conferred upon me when made the standard bearer of the only party that stands for the greatest good of the greatest number—the Independence League. Every plank of our platform is meat for you and it stands out in bold relief compared with the others as to what we will do for the masses.

"The rank and file of the good old Democratic party is now controlled by a lot of selfish, unscrupulous politicians. The disgraceful Democratic convention is fresh in your minds. As between Bartlett and Whitney the voter has little choice. Both represent graft as well as Guild corporate influence.

"I shall not speak of the planks in our political platform but to say that we want it to be understood as we are in perfect accord and sympathy with your efforts to benefit your conditions. Not till capital in favor of trial by jury is contempt cases existing from injunctions of employers and employes."

TWO REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

"The power of contempt in injunctions should be modified, as recommended by the American Federation of Labor. Injunctions against labor organizations created no conditions. Not till recently in the South were reached by injunctions were the subsidized press aroused. Queer, wasn't it?

"It is very well to bear in mind the Constitution, which guarantees equal rights to all and that liberty or property shall be equally protected by the due process of law.

"You have a Governor," he said, "who is seeking another election who is owned and controlled by the trusts. Show me the company you keep and I'll tell you who you are. The trusts are supporting Guild not because it is Guild, but because Guild has the bait,' just as the fisherman saved the boy not because he desired to save his life but because the boy had the bait in his pocket.

"Whitney is no more a Democrat than Senator Lodge. There are virtually two Republican candidates before the people in this State in Governor Guild and Mr. Whitney.

"Surrounded by a crowd of politicians, Whitney has chased up and down the State in his private car, doing well stocked, stultifying the Democratic party and the voters of the State of Massachusetts to their disgrace."

THE "WRONGS OF MAN."

E. Garry Brown, who was a delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention in Pittsfield two years ago, referred to his pleasure at being again in Pittsfield.

"Day in and day out we walk the beaten path without any hope that may result to us. For years I have talked of the 'rights of man' and to-night I have about come to the conclusion that they have no rights and that I would better talk of the 'wrongs of man.'

"We have raised wages but prices have soared as we raised them. We have no surplus now any more than then from our labor. Legislation is favoring special privileges has robbed us of our rights."

Referring to Eben S. Draper he explained the episode of the recent convention of the State branch of the American Federation of Labor, whereby a member made a motion to adjourn to allow members of the convention to go to Hopedale.

"I arose," said Mr. Brown, "and remarked that, subject to a motion to adjourn to go to either hell or Hopedale. Many delegates voted Hopedale forever, as they have visited it. Upon their return this convention voted unanimously for a resolution condemning Hopedale and Eben S. Draper, although last year they had endorsed no.

He then rehearsed the conditions of Hopedale, showed how the men made the average wage of employes $15 per week by adding a bonus of fourteen per cent.

"Mr. Brown pictured the State Democratic convention as he saw it, and said Republican money helped to stir up that awful blot upon Massachusetts. Now they all come to their Sunday-school contest and say vote for us rather than for these disgraceful, quarrelsome Democrats. Real Democracy to-day is represented in the Independence League.

"I see very little difference between the conditions of to-day and those of slavery days. The great immortality of slavery was wiped away and we are hastening toward a greater crisis now. Wealth must be earned not stolen.

"The rumblings of labor unions and stock jobbers can be heard now. Finally the principles of these political matters, 'It must be a battle of ballots.'

Two Speeches for Hisgen.

Mr. Hisgen speaks to-morrow at Wakefield and Hyde Park. The League candidate for Governor, at the invitation of friends, to-morrow night will drop in on the fair of the veteran Bremen in Wakefield. He is expected to make a brief speech there on the League and its aims.

From Wakefield Mr. Hisgen will hurry out to Hyde Park, where he will be the star on the list of speakers. The Hyde Park meeting will be opened by Lawrence Hall T. Auerbach, the BOSTON AMERICAN attorney in the famously successful fight before the Legislature for cheaper gas in Boston.

Mr. Auerbach, a member of the League's "People's Lobby," is thoroughly conversant with the ins and outs of Massachusetts legislation. He will tell Hyde Park HOW legislative committees are chosen, HOW THEY HOW some legislation is pushed, AND WHY, and HOW other legislation is killed AND WHY. Washington A. Cole will also speak.

Norwood and Plymouth on List.

At Norwood to-morrow night there will be a League rally in Village Hall, Post Office Square. Thomas E. Flaherty of Clinton, candidate for State Auditor, Hall T. Auerbach, and Hon. Walter L. Ramsdell, former Mayor of Lynn, are on the list of speakers.

Plymouth will have an Independence League rally to-morrow evening in Knights of Pythias Hall. The Plymouth folk will be favored by an address from Hon. William N. Osgood of Lowell, League candidate for Attorney-General.

Herbert E. Bryant of Plymouth and W. P. Sawyer of Boston, League candidates for the State Senate in the Seventh Suffolk District, will also talk on the issues of the day. If these three fail to arouse interest and enthusiasm, there is still Fr Anson B. Edgerly, a distinguished Boston attorney, formerly prominent in Republican ranks, who has been the life of every rally that he has attended thus far.

From day to day, until it becomes time to go to the polling place, the AMERICAN will call attention to these meetings in advance.

MAN INSTANTLY KILLED BY TRAIN

While attempting to get out of the way of an outward-bound train at the Linden street crossing, Arlington, to-day, Charles W. Small, sixty-eight, was struck by an in-bound train, hurled a distance of twenty feet and instantly killed. Small was a carpenter and lived at No. 11 Belknap street, Arlington. He was on his way to work when he was killed.

Independence League Rallies

RALLIES are to be held as follows, at which Thomas L. Hisgen, candidate for Governor on the Independence League ticket, and other speakers are to appear during the next two weeks. The star in front of each city or town indicates where Mr. Hisgen will speak:

*NORTH ADAMS, to-night.
*WAKEFIELD and HYDE PARK, to-morrow night.
NORWOOD and PLYMOUTH, Friday, October 25.
*CLINTON, Saturday, October 26.
*MARLBORO and *HUDSON, Monday, October 28.
*DORCHESTER and *LYNN, Tuesday, October 29.
*LAWRENCE and *LOWELL, Wednesday, October 30.
*WORCESTER, Thursday, October 31.
*SPRINGFIELD, *HOLYOKE, NORTHAMPTON and EASTHAMPTON, Friday, November 1.
*BOSTON, in Faneuil Hall, Saturday, November 2.

CHEER LEAGUE SPEAKERS AT GIANT QUINCY RALLY

QUINCY, Oct. 24—Hancock Hall was filled to overflowing last night by voters who had come from all sections of the city to attend the rally held in the interests of the Independence League candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, Thomas L. Hisgen and E. Gerry Brown.

Hon. William N. Osgood, who was one of the speakers, gave the audience a detailed history of the trust rule in this State, how drivers were being forced to "kneel and kiss rings" and how the masses could throw off the yoke by casting their ballots for the Independence League candidates—who stood for all that was good and honest.

The audience repeatedly cheered Mr. Osgood's replies to men who insisted on interrupting the speaker, and before he began at 9:30 demanded that he be allowed to take the platform and put some questions to him. Mr. Osgood prevailed on the chairman to allow him to put his queries after he had finished his speech and answered them fully, to the delight of his listeners. Here are the questions and Mr. Osgood's answers:

Cause of Discontent.

Q.—What is the reason for the present public discontent among the people of this country?

A.—That question can only be answered in a general way. One of the great causes is the centralization of wealth, resulting from the exercise of special privileges granted to a few and secured through virtual control of the government.

The government has been removed farther and farther from the people, and also is fast growing away from the principles of the foremost Democrat of all times—Thomas Jefferson—and the friend of the foremost Republican of all times—Abraham Lincoln.

These are the reasons which called into existence the Independence League, as a last resort to the people that government which belongs to them, and to restore this to necessity obtains, so long will the principles of the league be advocated all through this great nation by liberty-loving Americans.

Q.—Is the speaker in favor of profit-taking?

Stand Between Extremes.

A.—The gentleman is a Socialist. I am not a Socialist. The Independence League is not socialistic. We stand halfway between two extremes. We are here to stand for the public control of all means of production and distribution; neither for the other extreme, unrestricted individual liberty and license. We stand by the position exactly in the middle. We are in favor of the public performing public business and of individuals performing individual business. We advocate individual liberty only so far as it does not infringe upon the rights of others. We denounce the recognition of public functions by any class.

Q.—Coming down to a specific instance—do you believe that Hisgen is justified in making profits on Standard Oil?

A.—Most certainly I do. While Mr. Hisgen is charging right and wrong against all in the western part of the State, the Standard Oil Trust is securing fourteen and fifteen cents in other sections. He is entitled to the profit that he receives.

Junius T. Auerbach was the next speaker. He also took up the trust problem and pleaded with the voters to turn to Hisgen. The man who fought the Standard Oil to a standstill," and make him Governor to save many roots.

Washington A. Cole was accorded a great reception and his talk was frequently interrupted by cheers for Hisgen. Mr. Cole was a schoolboy chum of Mr. Hisgen's, and, like the pugilist, liked to use faking the stump to tell the people what a great and worthy man" "Plain Tom" Hisgen is.

Mr. Cole told how Mr. Hisgen had declared war on the Standard Oil and had gone to the people with his fight, single-handed, and how he had worked to help the wage earner.

Mr. Cole also advised the voters to cast their ballots for the Independence League candidates.

MacFarland's Speech.

Granville S. MacFarland made a stirring address, in which he told how he had once belonged to the Democratic party and how he had come to the conclusion that the good of the country demanded that both of the old and powerful political organizations be organized in defeat at the polls. He said that in the Independence League the people had an organization which would protect their rights, and it would be a triumph of the true principles of democracy when the new party was in line. MacFarland explained what the League stood for and was responsible for his indorsement of its principles by hearty cheers.

Clement L. Pollock, candidate for State Auditor, roused the audience by his earnest plea for the election of men who would serve the people and not trust bosses.

ABOR STIRRED BY BOUQUET TO WHITNEY

ALL RIVER, Oct. 24—Labor union secretaries have protested against John Eden's presentation Tuesday night of a gold cane to Mr. Whitney, candidate for Governor, as a gift from the working people of

Mr. Golden, they say, had no authority to represent organized labor; that it was presumption on his part that would not be backed up generally by the operatives.

MEETING TO VOICE PROTEST AGAINST DRAPER

LAWRENCE, Oct. 23—To voice labor's protest against the election of Eben S. Draper as Lieutenant-governor, the Lawrence Central Labor Union has completed arrangements for a mass meeting in City Hall, Friday evening.

Thomas Golden, President of the Textile Workers of America and E. Gerry Brown, Independence League candidate for lieutenant-governor, will be the speakers at a meeting of organized laboring men that promises to pack City Hall.

James R. Mcnale, president of the Central Labor Union will preside. The speakers will be escorted to the hall by a procession of laboring men representing all the unions in Lawrence.

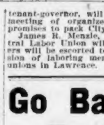
Go Back To Nature

Now Tried Today Throughout the Medical World.

Prominent Part in Sane Practice Taken by Boston Physician.



On every hand today the cry is, go back to nature and give nature a chance! For many years the health and happiness of many people have been endangered, if not actually lost, by the administration of drugs and chemicals. Less medicine is being taken every day, and the thinking men in the world are coming to recognize the words of St. John in Rev. 12, 2: "The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nation." No one will deny that the vegetable and botanic kingdoms are the true sources from which medicine should be derived.

Dr. J. H. Liverpool, the subject of this article, was born of a Cherokee mother and a Spanish father. His father was chief medicine man of the Santa Fe for over fifty years; his mother was noted for the wonderful cures she effected, so that he could from his father and the various tribes of Indians, he came to Boston and studied medicine as practiced by the white races.

For thirty years he has dispensed the healing balm contained in herbs, roots and barks. He is permanently located at 589 Tremont street, Boston, and can be consulted there Free by all any day, except Wednesday and Saturday, and on those days he can be found at 219 Essex street, Salem, Mass. Tel. Boston office, 1275-3 Tremont. He does not claim to do the impossible, but will give you an honest opinion of your case and describe minutely to you every ache and pain without any previous information from you.

For Indigestion

Hurried eating, ill chosen food, over eating—any of these indiscretions frequently result in acute pains and other uncomfortable sensations which are wearing on the nerves and temper.

For all ills of the stomach

BEECHAM'S PILLS

are specially valuable, as they act almost immediately on the undigested food and carry it out of the stomach. These wonderful pills combine certain vegetable ingredients in exactly the right proportions to secure the best results, without doing violence to the delicate lining of the stomach.

M'ETTRICK WITH LEAGUE IN FIGHT FOR THE SENATE

Wages Fight on Platform of Independence Party in Fourth District.

Thomas F. Phelan, the Independence League candidate for the Senate in the Fourth District, Wards 9, 12 and 17, has withdrawn from the contest in favor of former Congressman Michael J. McEttrick, who no ably represented Ward 17 in this year's Legislature, serving now as a member of the Recess Committee.

Mr. McEttrick will support Charles J. Kidney for the House of Representatives in Ward 17, as well as James M. Dormas and the platform of the Independence League, which is identical with the principles for which he has stood since he entered the field of politics.

That the contest will be one of the most interesting in the annals of the city is evidenced in the preparations being made by Mr. McEttrick.

"I have stood for the principles of the Independence League for the past twenty years," said Mr. McEttrick to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN, "and will always adhere to them as long as I remain a public servant.

Rape the Tammany Club.

"I am the candidate of no political boss or corrupt corporation machine. I stand as a candidate of the highest principles and policies of my intelligent friends and neighbors and am controlled by no political clubs or cliques.

"As I have always been bitterly opposed by corrupt corporations in the past, because of my determined opposition to their debauching practices at the State House and in Congress, so am I now in this present campaign vehemently fought by their organized machine of political tools, who are strongly entrenched in Ward 17, the Tammany Club, another and soulless menace to the prosperity and safety of every household in the district, and to every other throughout the State as well, which is headed, directed and owned by two political bosses, with undisputed corporation affiliations, and widely known as 'the Curleys.'

Praise For League Candidates.

"I am in favor of the candidacy of Charles J. Kidney for the House of Representatives. If there is a single voter in Ward 17 who would hesitate to vote for Charles J. Kidney, a man so thoroughly competent to represent the great labor interests of the ward, he is no friend of mine.

"To be elected myself and have Charles J. Kidney fall by the wayside would hit me with grief. I appeal to every man who is a voter in Ward 17, whether he be a Democrat, Republican, Socialist or Independence Leaguer, to cast a vote for Charles J. Kidney, who stands unalterably opposed to the trusts and grasping corporations.

A Contest for Principle.

"Tom Phelan has made a big sacrifice in pulling out of the contest for me and I want to say to the people of Ward 17 that I appreciate his manly act.

"The time is coming when he will receive those honors to which his ability entitles him. I have known him for years as an upright young man, whose character is without a blemish. I think him and the Independence League party for the support they are giving me in this contest for principle."

SEEKS TO FREE GREEK HELD FOR MURDER

Counsel for Georgios Laronis Says He Is Illegally Held by Immigration Board.

ASKS FOR HABEAS CORPUS

Declaring there is no evidence that Georgios Laronis is a murderer, wanted in Greece, as has been alleged, and that the Immigration authorities who have held him a prisoner in the detention station at Long Wharf are acting illegally and without justification, John H. Casey, formerly United States district attorney, has applied to Judge Dodge of the United States court for a writ of habeas corpus.

If the writ is granted, it is said Laronis will return to Holyoke, where he was working when he was arrested by an agent of the immigration authorities.

Several months ago Stavros Stauropoulos was murdered in Greece. His murderer, members of his family charged, was Laronis, and when Laronis suddenly left Greece he was followed by Alexios Stavropoulos, a son of the murdered man.

In Holyoke the son finally located Laronis and tried to induce the police to arrest him. But they advised young Stauropoulos to see the immigration authorities, who have held Laronis since October 2, awaiting word from the police of the city in Greece in which the murder is alleged to have taken place.

CATHOLIC REUNION OF VACATIONISTS

On January 20 a grand reunion of the Catholic young men and women who have spent their vacations at Gilmanton Iron Works, N. H., and the neighboring towns of Alton and Centre Barnstead, will be held in Catholic Union Hall, corner of Washington and Worcester streets. One of the chief objects of the reunion will be to form a plan to raise funds for the erecting of a hall at Gilmanton Iron Works so that Catholic services can be held there for the benefit of vacationists during the summer. Miss Nellie Collins, a popular young lady of the Charlestown district, is taking a great deal of interest in the matter. By her untiring efforts she has managed to get a good working committee together, so that the reunion promises to be the largest kind of a success. A permanent organization will be formed later.

Resting Is Nature's Great Beauty Secret, Says Lillian Russell

LILLIAN RUSSELL writes today on the art of resting, an accomplishment few women possess. The faculty of complete relaxation is a habit which must be acquired. Only among the Orientals does it reach perfection.

To build up the strength completely after a hard day's work one ought to loaf for a few minutes but only physically if not mentally. It took a long time to drill this fact into the American mind.

The big corporations employing hundreds of employes were the first to realize the value of giving the workers a few moments to themselves in the middle of the day. It is for this reason that rest rooms have been established.

Miss Russell's hardest work is done in the evening. For this reason she selects 5 o'clock for her rest hour. Consider carefully what a woman who has led the busiest of lives and kept all the charms of youth and beauty has to say on this topic:

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL

ARTICLE NO. 4—RESTING

EVERY woman ought to have a few minutes every day which she can call absolutely her own. If she plans rightly and systematizes her work she can snatch those few moments to build up her strength and compose her mind.

It is impossible to rest with your brain in a whirl. Don't lie down and then drive yourself into a nervous frenzy picturing what will happen. Perhaps your children will be as glad as you are to escape from the cry of "Mama!"

Drive all care from the mind. Tell yourself that you have worked enough over the bills, and children, and neighbors and health, and you are going to be some one else worry a bit now.

When I am not on the road—and seven when I am on tour—I spend as much of the afternoon as possible in the open air.

A Daily Lone Hour

I ALWAYS come home at 5 o'clock. From 5 to 8 I spend my lone hour. It is what Southern women call their siesta, I suppose. At any rate I darken my room, remove all tight clothing, wrap myself in a kimono and lie down flat on my back, with my arms outstretched, palms upward. If I cannot sleep I get myself into a semi-sleepy condition as possible. I try absolutely to banish worry, and as nearly as possible drive away all thought, and I never permit any one to disturb me in that hour. I relax completely.

No matter how tired I am when I lie down I am refreshed and rested when the clock strikes 8.

When traveling on the road in a private car I always take this hour to myself.

Many of my readers cannot have this hour to themselves. The woman who works in the office, the busy head of a household, finds her leisure hours are those of from 4 to 6.

She ought to take a few minutes at noon to rest, if she works in the office or if in the home she ought to take minutes at least early in the afternoon just before the children come home from school.

Rest Instead of Gossip

THERE are plenty of rest rooms in the business section of the city in connection with luncheon clubs. The office woman or shopper ought to visit these luncheon hour and spend a part of it in resting instead of gossiping with chums or walking about the streets.

There is not an employer in the city who would not gladly give you the few minutes to yourself when he finds that it would work to his advantage and that you could do better work in the afternoon for taking the rest.

Men like naturalness and repose in women, especially in the office and shop. It makes them feel as if there were weaklings when they see you serene and unaffected when they are struggling with some just because a shipment is delayed or someone made a stupid error which can be rectified.

What I am driving at is the fact that you ought to conserve your forces, mentally. Have you ever noticed that the heavier, brain-breaking work is relaxing in the most trivial of writings and plays?

You may not be a reader, but you can imitate one, and for a brief period each day give yourself over to this child's play and let yourself drift. Call it day-dreaming, if you wish, but just dream and refresh mind and body.

Advice as to Sleep

SPEND your evenings as you wish. When I am working I usually eat a light supper after the play in my room at the hotel or on the train, and go to bed early.

Sleep long enough to be fully refreshed, but not so long that you will begin to put on flesh.

I think the children who are growing up about us are going to be braver and stronger men and women than the present generation. We are learning to take life more coolly.

We call this a strenuous period, and no doubt it is, but the present generation is paying the penalty for the children will profit by it and not chase dollars as we have pursued these elusive things.

Again, mothers are learning the value of fresh air and health and sunlight, and reaching the youngsters to cultivate contentment more than riches.

LONG STOLE AGAIN COMES INTO FAVOR

The woman who has in stock her long stole so much in vogue two or three years ago need have no fear of being out of style when she wears it this Winter. This photograph, taken from one of the newest Winter models, argues that the fur wrap can be neither too big nor too long for style.

American Youth Is Lacking in Courtesy to Women and Aged

By Beatrice Fairfax

GOING uptown on the Subway the other day I witnessed a scene which I consider a disgrace to the thirty-odd young men who sat in the car.

At Boylston street a young woman, leading a two-year-old baby by the hand, got on the train.

The child was too small to stand, too heavy for the mother to hold in her arms.

The majority of the men were under thirty, some of them were boys of sixteen or thereabouts.

One was an old gentleman of seventy or over. His hair and beard were white as snow.

The woman with the baby looked around the car in a hesitating, helpless manner. There was not a vacant seat and not a man moved.

The old gentleman naturally expected one of the younger men to offer his seat.

He looked at them in astonished disgust and then, rising, courteously raised his hat and offered his seat.

And those sturdy, strong young men, young enough to be his sons and grandsons, allowed the white-haired old man to cling swaying to a strap.

One Mad Rush

THERE is not another country in the world where such a thing could take place.

This is a wonderful, splendid country, but respect and courtesy toward old people are not among its good qualities.

Young men and women jostle and push past their elders in the rudest manner. On the trains and forcing the seats are occupied by boys and young men, while old people and women stand.

All is one mad rush to get there first and secure the best seat.

Getting on a car the other day I was almost knocked off my feet by two well-dressed, stalwart young negroes. They had paid their fare and had a right to a seat as I had, but it is not as easy for a woman to hang on a strap as it is for a man.

Of course, the basis of the lack of respect toward his elders on the average American's part lies in his up-bringing. In his childhood he has been allowed to occupy the most comfortable chair, to interrupt his elders and to consider himself a person of supreme importance.

The parents who bring up a child in this way err through love, but if they only knew if they are doing their child a great wrong.

One of the most important things to instill in a child's mind is obedience and respect toward his elders.

There is no child in the world brighter and more amenable to reason than the American child. But when his parents repeat all his bright sayings before him and make the entire household machinery revolve about his small self, he naturally grows to think himself a very big man.

Is All Wrong

HE does not think it necessary to offer his elders the most comfortable chair in the room or to stand when an older person is talking to him. After he is grown he is very ready to offer his seat in the car to a young and pretty girl, but all old man may stand for blocks.

That is all wrong, and it is a shame that our men, who are in most ways as the young American, should allow such a blot to spoil his reputation as a gentleman.

With girls the lack of respect toward their elders usually takes the form of impertness. There is nothing more unattractive than a pert girl. She refuses to give up and ease, and only succeeds in being rude.

I have seen an old person flush painfully over some would-be funny remark by a young girl.

The young people should bear in mind that they in their turn will be old some day and must expect to reap as they sow.

Just take time in your busy, happy lives, young people, to be courteous and considerate toward your elders.

Girls, remember that the young man who is rough and rude toward old people will never make a good husband.

And, boys, remember that the girl who is pert and rude to old people is not the girl who will make a sweet, gentle woman.

When Marriage Is a Failure

MARRIAGE is a failure if neither husband nor wife has married for love, but merely for money, or any other mundane motive.

IF meals are ill-cooked and badly served.

IF two young people rush into matrimony and take unto themselves all the burden of married life when two young people should be allowed to decrease.

IF the income, though well managed and made the most of, cannot cover the expenditure.

IF the husband be a fuddy, fidgety man, perpetually perpetrating petty household matters, and if he thinks he knows more about them than anybody else.

IF both parties are absolutely resolved to see only the worst side of each other's character.

IF the husband tries to be his mistress as well as master, or the wife master as well as mistress of the house.

IF, when dark days come, husband and wife forget they took each other for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer.

Wear the Hat That Becomes Your Face

A WOMAN should pin her hat securely at the angle she wishes it to maintain before she leaves her mirror, otherwise she will be constantly working at it and stealing surreptitious glances at every looking glass she happens to pass. There is an art in wearing the bizarre shapes of the season which must be learned from the mistress at the fitting. The hat is bought otherwise it may give an entirely different and highly unbecoming effect to its wearer.

The woman with glasses and the woman with long, prevent hats, the woman with little chary of picture hats, they sometimes make the wearer look more ridiculous than she really is.

When putting up the coiffure, arrange a good wad of hair for the hatpin to penetrate, then the hat will be much more comfortable.

The woman of mature years should remember that too youthful a hat and too much an air of youth in the trimming will add to rather than detract from her age.

TREATMENT OF KID BOOTS

TO prevent kid boots from becoming hard and stiff after they have been wet, they must first be rubbed with a soft cloth immediately after coming in from the feet, and while still damp kerosene and should be rubbed in well with a piece of flannel. The boots should be allowed to dry when the first application is nearly dry. Then rub in the second coat, after which the drying operation can be finished gradually, but before doing so put in a stiff shoe trees. Before wearing them rub over once more with a little kerosene and then apply a good kid polish.

Clean Milk Would Save Many Babies

A PHASE of the subject of race suicide which should receive much attention as the general public should give it is that of preserving the lives of infants. The population must be allowed to decrease, the birth rate must exceed the death rate, the state must be maintained, but what if after the birth of the thousands of future citizens they are permitted to languish and die for want of proper food?

The sanitarian agrees with those who insist that the birth rate must be reduced, but he also insists that we must save the little children that are now born and suffered.

Dr. Charles Harrington of Harvard, secretary of the Board of Health of Massachusetts, has been exhaustively into the causes of infant mortality, and his investigations point to artificial feeding, which means giving children ordinary market milk as being chiefly responsible for the appalling death rate. This milk he says, and all students of the subject agree with him—is absolutely unfit for infant food.

He relates that in one district in which there were 2,800 infants 1,060 were suckled and 840 were bottle fed, and of the suckled only one died of diarrheal diseases, while of the bottle fed 59 died.

The number of deaths was seventy times as great among those that were bottle fed, and the number of deaths per 1,000 in the seven weeks of the Summer of 1905, 75 of them from the well-known Summer complaint. Nearly every one of these infants was bottle fed.

In still another district of all infants between six and twelve months old that died of diarrheal disease during the year nine-tenths were bottle fed.

An investigation on a large scale was that of the methods followed in feeding 3,077 infants that died in Munich in 1903. This revealed the fact that 3,395 out of 3,863 were bottle fed.

Dr. Harrington's observation as to the milk supply is very forceful.

"This is simple," he says. "We should insist upon cleaner milk and be willing to pay for it. Encourage the production of a sanitary supply and refuse to buy dirt and pus.

"Any injury the properties of the milk by heating? Why permit pollution of the milk, then kill the bacteria by heat and destroy the nutriment? Why not prevent rather than cure? Why drink these vile things even though the milk be sterilized?"

NOVELTY FOR GUARDING SKIRTS.

ONE of the nuisances in connection with propelling a baby-carriage or -cart, as every mother knows, is the liability of preventing the skirt from coming in contact with the dirty wheels. Frequently, in time, ruining it. A Michigan man has invented a dirt guard for the purpose. The guard consists of a pair of wheel fenders in the form of a quarter-circle, which are supported on brackets extending from the body of the baby carriage and from the axle. They are positioned just back of the rear wheels. In case of the skirt becoming caught by the wheel, it strikes the fender or guard, being thereby protected from the dirt, which naturally adheres to the tires of the wheels.

BAKED MACARONI

BOIL macaroni (or spaghetti) forty-five minutes; drain and throw into cold water; cut in half inch pieces. Put two tablespoons of butter and one of flour in saucepan; brown; add one pint of milk and melt. Add one quart of sweet milk and stir until boiling. Cut up three eggs and two cups of American cheese; add to the sauce. Put macaroni in baking dish and pour the sauce over it; it will be liable to curdle, but this does not matter. Add salt and pepper and turn all into a buttered baking dish. Cover with bread crumbs and bake in a quick oven forty minutes. This is very good.

PRESERVED QUINCES

DARE and quarter the quinces, boil in enough water to keep them whole. When they are tender take them out, and to each pound of quince add a pound of pulverized white sugar. Let them stand with the sugar on until the next day, when you will find the syrup as light and clear as amber. Put them in kettle and let them boil twenty minutes. Does this way never part hard. You can use the water they were boiled in to make the jelly, which is made and in the usual way. Add a pound of white sugar to each pint of juice and boil twenty-five minutes.

GREEN TOMATO PIE

WASH and slice enough green tomatoes the same as you would apples for a pie. Put them in a bowl and put a cup of sugar over them and let them stand until you have the crust made and in the pie plate. Then put them in and sprinkle nutmeg and a little flour over and a little more sugar, if not sweet enough. Don't put any water with them. Put on the top crust and bake half an hour.

Cascades, N. H. MRS. H. WHALEN.

OLD FASHIONED PUMPKIN PIE

COOK the pumpkin until soft and dry. It must cook slowly to prevent scorching. Put through a colander and to a pint of sifted pumpkin add one egg, three teaspoons of molasses, one-half cup of sugar, one teaspoon of cinnamon, pinch of salt and one pint of milk. This will fill one large plate and should be cooked in a slow oven till a golden brown.

PLANKHED TEA

Two tablespoons of wheat flour sifted one pint of boiling water. Boil fifteen minutes. Cut up one lemon in a pitcher with two tablespoons of sugar and strain while boiling hot. Excellent for cough or sore throat.

THE TURN OF THE BALANCE

A Thrilling Romance of American Life---By Brand Whitlock

CHAPTER XIII.

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

ELIZABETH kept to her purpose of doing something to justify her continuing in existence, as she put it to her mother, and there was a period of two or three weeks following a lecture by a humanitarian from Chicago, when she tortured the family by considering a residence in a social settlement.

But Mrs. Ward was relieved when this purpose realized itself in a way so respectable as the Organized Charities work. The Organized Charities was more than respectable—it was eminently respectable—and when Mrs. Russell consented to become its president it took on a social rank of the highest authority. The work of this organization was simply unheard of when it was incorporated and so might quite legally be said to lack a soul, which gave it the advantage of being in no personal reputation excluded from its dealings with the poor.

Business men, by subscribing a small sum might turn all beggars over to the Organized Charities, and by giving to the Organized Charities, and by giving to the hungry, who asked for bread, be relieved of a little trouble, secure immediate relief from the disturbing sense of personal responsibility.

Organized Relief

The poor who were thus referred might go to the bureau, have their applications duly enrolled and indexed by the secretary, and have their characters and careers investigated by an agent.

All this was referred to as an organized relief work, and it was indeed quite successful as to affairs relief to those who were thus relieved, but enjoyed by the spectacles of poverty and disease that hundred their way into places of business.

When the Organized Charities resumed in the Fall the monthly meetings that had been discontinued during the heated term were resumed.

Mrs. Russell was in the president's chair, and promptly at 3 o'clock, considering the day jewelled watch that hung in the front hall of her home, the meeting was called to order.

After the recording secretary had read the minutes of the last meeting, held in the Spring, and these had been approved, the corresponding secretary read a report and a list of the new members.

Then a young clergyman with a pale, ascetic face and a high, retreat waistcoat, against which a large cross of gold was suspended by a cord, read his report as treasurer, giving the names of the new subscribers already reported by the corresponding secretary, but adding the amount subscribed by each, the amount of money in the treasury, the amount expended in paying the salaries of the clerks, the rent of the telephone, printing, postage, and so on.

Then the agents of the organization reported the number of cases they had investigated, arranging them alphabetically, and in the form of statistics. Then the clerk reported the number of relief tickets that had been distributed and the smaller number that had been gastronomically redeemed.

After that there were reports from standing committees, and when all these had been read, received and approved as they were ordered to be placed on file, these preambles accomplished an hour, and Elizabeth felt the effect to be somewhat deadening.

Woman With Zeal

During the reading of the reports, the members, of whom there were about forty, mostly women, had sat in respectful silence, decorously coughing now and then.

When all the reports had been read, a woman rose, and addressing Mrs. Russell as "Madame President," said that she wished again to move that the meetings of the society be opened with prayer. At this the faces of the other members clouded with an expression of weariness.

The woman who made the motion spoke to it at length, and with the only zeal that Elizabeth had thus far observed in the proceedings. Elizabeth was not long in grasping that Lily same woman had made this proposal at former meetings; whence this by the novelty of the matter was put to a vote, and all voted no, save the woman who had made the proposal, and she voted "aye" loudly, going down to defeat in the defiance of the unconvinced.

Call of the Blind

Then another woman rose and said that she had a matter to bring before the meeting; this matter related to a blind woman who had called on her and complained that the Organized Charities had refused to give her assistance. Now that the Winter was coming on the blind woman was filled with fear of want.

Elizabeth had a dim vision of the blind woman, even from the crude and inadequate description; she felt a pity and a desire to help her, and at the same time had that consideration which seems to be more than accusation, a kind of indignation with the Organized Charities. For the first time she was interested in the proceedings and leaned forward to hear what was to be done with the blind woman.

But while the description had been inadequate to Elizabeth, so that her own imagination had filled out the picture, it was, nevertheless, sufficient for the other members, for while words were exchanged and the secretary, with a rasping, assured, and superior expression, began to turn over the cards in her elaborate system of indexed names, Elizabeth, constantly a general desire to speak, several persons were on their feet at once, saying "Madame President!" and Mrs. Russell recognized one of them with a smile that appropriated and promised the others in their turn.

The Fall had prolonged itself into November; the weather was so perfect that Dick could daily speed his automobile, and the men who, like Marriott, still clung to golf could play on Mondays and Sundays at the country Club. But December came, and with it many rainy days that would become a sleet; then the snow and a cold north.

The wretched Winter weather, which seems to have a spite almost personal for the Lake regions, produced its results in the lives of men—there were suicides and crimes for the police, and for the Organized Charities the poor, now forced to emerge from the retreats where in milder weather they could hide their wretchedness.

They came forth, and when Elizabeth and Mrs. Russell entered the Charities one morning there they were, ranged along the wall.

They sat bundled in their rags, waiting in dumb patience for the last humiliation of an official investigation, making no sound save as their ailments compelled some to sneeze or to cough now and then, and as Elizabeth and Mrs. Russell passed into the room they were followed by eyes that had lost no reproach or envy, but only a mild curiosity.

The poor sat there, perhaps glad of the warmth and the rest; willing to spend the day, if necessary, with hopes that at last a man some more temporary relief that would help them to eke out their lives a few hours longer and until another day, when the same thing, this day, repeated in its wants and hardships.

The atmosphere of the room was stifling, with an odor that sickened Elizabeth, the fetor of all the dirt and disease that poverty had accumulated and heaped upon itself.

A Strange Woman

At the desk Mrs. Rider, the clerk, and the two agents of the society were interrogating a woman. The woman was tall and slender, and her pale face had some trace of prettiness left; her clothing was better than that of the others, though it had remained over from some easier circumstance of the Summer.

DAILY PUZZLE PICTURE

Things in the Kitchen

What Kitchen Article Is This?

ANSWER:

ONE of these puzzle pictures is published daily in the BOSTON AMERICAN. Twenty dollars in prizes will be given weekly for the best answers sent in.

The $20 in prizes will be divided as follows:

First prize	$10
Second prize	5
Five prizes of $1 each	5
Total	$20

Cut out the puzzle picture each day, write your answer on each, and mail the complete set of seven to the Puzzle Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, with your best suggestion as to what you would like to see in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Where all have given correct answers the prizes will be awarded to those making the best suggestions.

The list of prize-winners of last week's contest, together with the final picture in this week's series, will be printed in next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN.

Etiquette at Weddings

WHEN a girl is married in a traveling dress the number of bridesmaids should be limited to one.

If the bride goes straight away from the church friends do not expect to be invited to the ceremony.

As a rule, only the nearest relatives and a few intimate friends receive invitations.

The bridal bouquet is oftener than not dispensed with, a few orange blossoms being used in the trimming of the hat or toque instead.

But there is no rule against either bride or bridesmaid carrying a bouquet, and whether they do or not is merely a matter of personal inclination on their part.

To invite guests to the church only and not to return to the house afterward, except under special circumstances, is not considered in quite good taste.

And to invite them to the reception and not to the ceremony is viewed in the same way.

SOAK SOILED CURTAINS

LACE window curtains should always be soaked for an hour in cold water, to which a little borax has been added, before being put into warm suds. This gets out the smoky smell that is sometimes so objectionable in curtains that have been used in a town.

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

A FAITHLESS SWEETHEART

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl twenty-one, and for the last two years I have been keeping company with a young man of twenty-five. Several months ago we became engaged and were to be married in the spring. A few evenings ago my friend called and told me he had changed his mind and thought the best we should part. I know through a friend that he goes out with another young lady—have seen him myself. I do not know what to do, as all my friends are asking me questions which embarrass me very much. E. R. T.

I THINK that he has treated you in the most heartless, shabby way, and you are much better off without him. He would make a very bad husband. Tell your friends that the engagement is broken off. You are not obliged to tell them anything more. Try to forget the man; he is not worth worrying about.

BREAK IT OFF

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

While on my vacation this Summer I met a young gentleman. We really thought we cared, and now say that we became engaged. Shortly after we met only eighteen years old. Since then I have been thinking the engagement without hurting his feelings, as I do not love him any longer.

PUZZLED.

TELL the young man that you feel that you are too young to be quite sure of your mind. If you feel that you cannot talk to him about it, write and say that you do not want to become engaged to anyone for some time to come, that you like him very much, but not enough to marry him.

Your Ears

Do they stand out from your head, giving you a ridiculous appearance? Notice the appearance of others afflicted with outstanding ears and you will realize the importance of having yours made symmetrical and in harmony with your facial contour. Call or write Dept. K for information free.

HABEAS CORPUS TO REGAIN CHILD

Judge Loring in the Supreme Court yesterday granted a habeas corpus petition to Mrs. Jane Spencer of Broadbrook, Ct., given her the custody of her child, Consuelo Delance, aged ten years. The child has been in the family of Albert Thomas, colored, of Natick for several years, and despite the entreaties of the mother and Thomas, refused to relinquish the little girl. Mrs. Spencer applied for a writ a month ago. Judge Loring acted on the advice of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which investigated and defended the mother's action to regain her child.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath

Bad Odor of Indigestion, Smoking, Drinking or Eating Can Be Instantly Stopped.

Sample Package Mailed Free.

Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to kind before them and while you are talking give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning—that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of obnoxious foods or gas from indigestion.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour brash and belching of gas, and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breath or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines all the impurities there massed together and which cause the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm. In fact, the more you take they better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your druggist and get a 25c. box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cleaner" inside.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

THREE REPUBLICANS IN FIGHT FOR MAYORALTY

MOVE TO DOWN GRAVES AS CITY CHAIRMAN; PAPERS OPENED TO-DAY.

The opening of nomination papers at the headquarters of the Republican City Committee, No. 6 Beacon street, to-day, disclosed three Republican aspirants for mayoralty honors, two for Street Commissioner, thirty-four for alderman and 117 for the Common Council. Consenting delegations for the city convention were filed from but two wards, Wards 7 and 18. In seven yards, Wards 1, 7, 8, 12, 18, 23 and 25, there are contests for ward committee, which carry control of the ward.

In addition to Street Commissioner William E. Hannan, who is fighting the nomination, Postmaster George A. Hibbard, for the Republican mayoralty nomination, the opening of the papers disclosed that former Representative Frederick W. Bliss of Ward 20 was in the field, as was predicted in the Boston Sunday American.

The most important disclosure in the eyes of the politicians, made by the opening of the papers, was that of a strong movement in Ward 1, the home of President Edward G. Graves of the Republican City Committee, to oust him from membership on the ward and city committee. The ticket which bears Graves's name is headed by Charles T. Witt, while the opposition ticket is led by former Councilman Benjamin F. Campbell and is backed by such leading politicians as Joseph R. Nutcake, former president of the Republican City Committee; John A. Campbell, manager of Walter S. Gilfdden's successful Democratic municipal campaign against Alfred E. Cox, and William H. Musgrave.

Echo from Cox Campaign.

The opposition to Graves grew out of his connection with the Cox campaign and his assertion of Jesse Gove, the "favorite son" of Ward 1, in the district attorney convention, Graves voting for Jean S. Berry on a proxy from Ward 11.

In Ward 12, Alderman "Smooth Bill" Berwin's faction has filed a ticket in opposition to the present committee. Berwin's ticket is headed by O. Edward Kaiser, who announced yesterday that he had withdrawn as a Mayoralty candidate in favor of Postmaster Hibbard, will not get his renomination for the board without a fight. Walter Ballantyne of Ward 17 having filed papers in opposition.

Compromise Ward Ticket.

In Ward 25, Brighton, the organization has got together on a compromise ward committee ticket, headed by William H. Squire. Judge Fitzgerald, one of the young Republican leaders of the ward, has filed an opposition ticket.

Not one-half of the present Republican membership of the Board of Aldermen seek renomination—Aldermen George H. Battle, Lotte M. Clark and William Berwin in Clark's district, the Eighth, there are eleven candidates for the two nominations. Battle in the First district, Ward 2 and East Boston, is opposed only by Butler. Berwin in the Sixth District, Wards 12 and 17, has only Ballantyne to fight.

Parker Would Succeed Draper.

W. Prentiss Parker, of Kidder, Peabody & Company, chairman of the board of pauper institutions trustees which was removed by Mayor Fitzgerald, seeks to succeed Alderman Charles M. Draper in the Ninth District, wards 18 and 21. There are four other candidates for the nomination.

In South Boston there but two candidates, Lawyer Robert M. Howen, of the firm of Sughrue & Chase, and Bath Trustee James M. Porter. Councilman George P. Anderson, who is strong from an alphabetical standpoint, is without opposition in the Fifth District, as is Councilman "Jimmy" Nevers of the Back Bay in the Third. E. Dwight Fullerton, the old Harvard quarter-miler, is a candidate on the North and West End District. While the geneterial is represented by James J. Anthony of Ward 6.

Councilman George W. Carruth, "mayor" of West Roxbury, has two opponents for the aldermanic nomination in Wards 22 and 24, the Eleventh District. They are both from Ward 22, John E. Crook and W. Dudley Cotton.

Of the 113 aspirants for the seventy-five councilmanic nominations, fourteen are from Ward 24, nine from Ward 20 and eight from Ward 25. In Ward 13 Senator Frank J. Linehan's Democratic stronghold, but one candidate has filed, while the ward is entitled to three nominations. From Ward 17 there were no nominations, while in Wards 2 and 3 there is but one each and in Wards 8, 9, 18 and 19 two each.

List of Nominations.

The following is a list of nominations filed for Mayor, Street Commissioner and Aldermen.

Mayor—William E. Hannan, No. 32 Millwood street, Ward 24; George A. Hibbard, No. 35 Beaumont street, Ward 24; Frederic W. Bliss, No. 151 Adams street, Ward 20.

Street Commissioner—Charles M. Draper, No 112 Bower street, Ward 21; William Loring, No. 66 Harbor View street, Ward 20.

Aldermen.

District 1, (Wards 1 and 2)—George H. Battle, Benjamin H. Bates, Edgar M. Winchester.

District 2, (Wards 3, 4 and 5)—Percy E. Smith.

District 3, (Wards 7 and 11)—James B. Noyes.

District 4, (Wards 6 and 8)—Edward Dwight Fuller, James L. Anthony.

District 5 (Wards 9 and 10)—George P. Anderson.

District 6 (Wards 18 and 21)—Gabriel B. Conkley (no relation to "Tim"), Charles H. Barker, W. Prentiss Parker, William W. Curtis, William H. Roberts.

District 7 (Wards 13, 14 and 15, two nominations)—Robert M. Bowen, James M. Porter.

District 8 (Wards 16, 20 and 24, two nominations)—Henry S. Clark, George O. Wood, Samuel Carrer, Charles A. Clark, Frederick J. Brand, Alfred Cyrus Frederick Frank S. Atwood, Charles E. Beatty, Thomas C. Bachelder, Louis M. Clark, Charles A. Adams.

District 9 (Wards 12 and 17)—Walter S. Berwin, William Berwin.

District 10 (Wards 19 and 25)—Walter F. Abbott, Charles H. Bryant, Alexander Rose.

G. A. R. DAY AT THE FOOD FAIR

To-day is G. A. R. Day at the Food Fair. A program consisting of patriotic songs and addresses is arranged under the auspices of the Ladies' Circle of the John A. Andrew Post, with Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, president, in charge. For the occasion the big fair will wear a dress of patriotic colors and the old soldier will be given a free reception.

An interesting address on the aims of the Ladies' Circle will be given by Department President Austin P. Quimby. Clerk's district, the Eighth, there are eleven candidates for the two nominations. Battle in the First District, Ward 2 and East Boston, is opposed only by Butler. Berwin in the Sixth District, Wards 12 and 17, has only Ballantyne to fight.

Battle Fr Perkins, assistant inspector, will tell of the work of the order from its inception. An original poem on "John Andrew Circle 23 at Saratoga" will be read by President Davis. A chorus of children will be a feature of the musical program.

NEW SCHOONER LAUNCHED.

ROCKLAND, Oct. 24.—The four-masted schooner W. Dean E. Brown, built for the lumber trade for the Benedict-Mason Marine Company of New Haven, Ct., has been launched from the yard of Cobb, Butler & Company. Miss Marion N. Cobb, daughter of Governor Cobb, christened the new vessel.

If you still doubt the ability of the Bitters to make you well again, just try one bottle today, and let it prove for itself that it can do so. Thousands have been convinced in this way. It always cures Poor Appetite, Sleeplessness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion Costiveness and Colds.

LINEHAN SEEKS WARRANT FOR PROBER FARLEY

Senator and Secretary of Commission in Court; Action Delayed.

BOARD TO MAKE FIGHT

Seeking a warrant for the arrest of J. Wells Farley, secretary of the Finance Commission, because he visited the offices of the Atlas Construction Company, the bond of which is Senator Frank J. Linehan, on Monday, and examined the books and papers concern without the Senator's permission, Senator Linehan appeared before Judge Murray in the Second Session of the Municipal Court to-day.

Mr. Farley was notified yesterday that application for the warrant would be made and to be at court at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Farley reached court ahead of Senator Linehan and was talking with Judge Murray on the arrival of the Senator and his counsel, Hugh W. Ogden, and the Senator's bookkeeper, a pretty young woman, who allowed Mr. Farley and Attorney Michael J. Sughrue to see the Linehan books after they had secured her with a summons.

It was announced that by request of all concerned the hearing on the application for a warrant had been put over until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

"We are only going to get after Farley. We will not take any action against Mr. Sughrue," declared Senator Linehan to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter before he left the court room.

Senator Linehan declares that Secretary Farley and Mr. Sughrue had no legal right to examine his books in his absence without his permission and yesterday he visited the rooms of the finance commission and told its members plainly what he thought of the proceedings.

The members of the commission believe that Mr. Farley and Mr. Sughrue acted legally and if a warrant is granted they will stand by Mr. Farley.

SCHOOL GIFT BY C. F. KING DEDICATED

Cadets at Manlius, N. Y., Hold Formal Exercises in Honor of Event.

NEW LYCEUM FOR BOYS

MANLIUS, N. Y., Oct. 24.—It was a gala day at St. John's Military School to-day from the sound of "reveille" to "taps." the occasion being the formal dedication and acceptance of the C. F. King Lyceum, which was presented to the military school by Mrs. C. F. King, the well-known Boston, Mass., financier.

The C. F. King Lyceum is a very handsome building, and provides to prove a source of great pleasure to the students. It is built in the bungalow style, and it is fifty-six feet long, forty-eight feet wide, surrounded by an eight-foot veranda on all sides. The main floor is divided into two spacious rooms, each of which is finished in stained cypress; walls being handsomely tinted, one will be a lounging room and the other a reading room. Weekly literary exercises and debates will be held in the former, and at other times it will be used by the cadets who wish to read, play chess or checkers. The other is a billiard and pool room, already equipped with three fine tables.

Colonel Verbeck addressed the students and introduced Mrs King to them, and he was given an ovation. Mrs. King addressed the students and explained his purposes in making the gift and his hopes for its use and appreciation.

After the Lyceum had been declared accepted and formally opened, a pool tournament was started. Subsequently an excellent entertainment was provided by the musical organization connected with the school, which continued until "taps."

The guests, especially fae military officers, were loud in their praises of Mr. King for his thoughtfulness in presenting the Lyceum to the school, which it is expected will be fruitful of much good, particularly of the development of that spirit du corps which means so much to a military institution.

St. John's School at Manlius is regarded as one of the best military "prep" schools in the country.

In Running Up Big Football Scores

TIGERS LEAD ALL TEAMS

Princeton has run her total of points from one extreme to the other, the Crimson's points having been made in this order: 5, 30, 23, 18 and 0. Schedules, however, are largely guesswork, for nobody can foresee what an opponent will bring forth. The Lafayette eleven, like Princeton, has made double figures in every one of its games, and with one exception there has been a noticeable sameness in the number of points made against opponents. Lafayette's totals having been made in the following order: 22, 21, 43 and 23.

Drop Kicking Popular.

Drop kicking was rampant in Saturday's games, there being nearly a score of them, the Minnesota and Pennsylvania State teams each making two and winning on that account. With a crack drop-kicker at Pennsylvania State, a good one at the University of Pennsylvania, another good one at Carlisle and two skilful ones at Swarthmore the State of Pennsylvania comes pretty to having a monopoly of drop kickers. An 11 to 11 score in one game and an 18 to 17 result in another were among the pettiest of happenings on Saturday. The totals of the different elevens follow:

Harvard, 52—4 (two games); Yale, 105—0 (two games); Princeton, 23?—5 (five games); Pennsylvania, 106—16 (seven games); Cornell, 115—11 (five games); West Point, 55—0 (three games); Annapolis, 73—12 (two games); Brown, 85—11 (five games); Dartmouth, 61—0 (six games); Carlisle, 94—11 (six games); Lafayette, 107—44 (four games); Syracuse, 83—31 (five games); Williams, 75—0 (five games); Amherst, 40—0 (three games); Pennsylvania State, 129—30 (five games); Swarthmore, 62—21 (four games); Bucknell, 40—0 (three games); Lehigh, 129—0 (four games); Navy, 75—0 (two games); Haverford, 46—0 (three games); Amherst Aggies, 25—21 (five games); Virginia, 22—0 (four games); Rutgers, 40—0 (three games); Colgate, 56—0 (five games); Stevens, 52—0 (two games); Holy Cross, 40—0 (two games); Dickinson, 6—15 (two games); Bowdoin, 11—22 (two games); Michigan, 57—0 (four games); Chicago, 69—12 (two games); Minnesota, 16—5 (two games); Ripon, 35—0 six games; Amherst, 42—18 (five games).

M'FARLAND BUTTED GODMAN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 24.—Packey McFarland won the decision over Kid Goodman, the iron-jawed Boston lightweight here after ten rounds of vicious fighting. The victory was a hard-earned one for the Chicago boy, and in a measure unsatisfactory, for the decision was against the fast Goodman, a trick that has never been done. With this aim in view he was after the Bostonian, hammer and tongs, practically every minute of the fight, showing up for an occasional short rest only during the partial rounds.

The decision was as just one, for while both men appeared able to go on for several rounds at the close, McFarland outlasted Goodman and landed more cruel blows. Although Packey was trying all the time for a knockout, neither man was floored by a punch. Packey fell from his own efforts in the fifth round and Goodman was pushed through the ropes on one occasion.

The only thing that marred the fight was McFarland's butting, he bore into Goodman's head and laid down forcibly the Kid considerably.

The first six rounds of the battle were fairly even and McFarland won the verdict by a determined rally in the last four sessions in which he never gave Goodman a second spell. He landed at will, pinned the Boston lad around the ring, raining punches on the head and body.

The finish was one of the fiercest ever seen in a local ring. McFarland and Goodman went at each other like two wild-cats and when the end came both were willing to quit. Packey admitted the most punishment in a fight he has ever had at the end from the effects of his own efforts.

Billy Delaney Praises Highly Joe Thomas's Conqueror;

KETCHELL BEST FIGHTER IN WEST

BY TAD.

The greatest fighter in the West to-day is Young Ketchell, the Montana lad, who knocked Joe Thomas out in thirty-two rounds at Colma two months ago.

Ketchell, before that, was an unknown in the West. He had fought a bunch of second-raters, and had later fought Thomas in a draw at Marysville. When this pair met for the second time, Thomas was a big favorite. He outweighed Ketchell and seemed also to outclass him, but after three or four rounds of going those at the ringside changed their views, and round by round saw him beat down the great Joe Thomas.

Billy Delaney, who saw the fight, says Ketchell is one of the roughest and best two-handed fighters he has seen in years.

"He doesn't have to be set at for long," the old trainer, "and can hit as hard with his head as he does with the other. All those quarrels he turns sideways on his man and beats him on the back and body with short, fast, and if and when a lot of good. After a little of this practice big fellows would take their leaders as if they were children. I'll say this for him, that they hit the dummy lower and about twice as hard. The men were all schooled at tackling from the side, the dummy being pulled from the right and the left from behind and head on.

This afternoon another hard scrimmage is carded.

OSBORNE MAKES HARVARD VARSITY PLAYERS HUSTLE

Glidden Osborne, who is playing on the Harvard second eleven, in practice with the varsity is proving a valuable acquisition. He gives the big eleven a lot of good practice and stops many plays that otherwise would have resulted in good gains.

The varsity players were held to a 0 to 0 score, and with one exception the ball zigzagged across the field the whole time.

Crane Wants Speed.

Speed, low charging and a plentiful use of hands in breaking through were the three points on which Cutts dwelt most with his line men, and he had his charges starting like a lot of sprinters after a few minutes of the work.

The defensive backs came in for a lot of coaching at this practice, Daly insisting that they time in to help their line men and bend the runner back as soon as he was stopped.

After this line plugging and hard tackling and opening up of holes the men were put in the scrimmage, Dillon giving away a few punts. He took things easy, but his punts traveled well.

The first part of the elementary practice for the linemen was a long siege at the tackling dummy. They were all put through the mill and kept at it for upwards of fifteen minutes. A new piece of apparatus was introduced by Coach Cutts yesterday in the shape of a dummy which was set up on its side about five feet in front of the tackling dummy and over which the players were made to dive when tackling. Coach Cutts is laying no pressure upon the men the necessity of learning their feet, and if he did there a lot of good. After a little of this practice the big fellows would take their leaders as if they were children. I'll say this for him, that they hit the dummy lower and about twice as hard. The men were all schooled at tackling from the side, the dummy being pulled from the right and the left from behind and head on.

This afternoon another hard scrimmage is carded.

CRACK HUB ATHLETES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Athletes from many parts of the country will gather at Madison Square Garden on to-morrow and Saturday nights to compete for the indoor title of the Amateur Athletic Union. A few years ago indoor athletics were not given serious attention by men at the head of the track and field sports, but now the indoor meetings rank almost as high as the outdoor. In fact, there are more young men who compete during the Winter than there are in the so-called athletic season, from May to the end of September. Again, the indoor meets are, as a rule, the more successful from a financial standpoint.

At the coming two-day meet in New York big events will be seen many champions. The metropolis will, of course, be the home of the competitors, but other parts of the country will be well represented. Boston, Portland, Ore., the man who defeated Shaw of Dartmouth, at Jamestown, will be seen in the hurdles, and several other track performers from the middle West and Canada will be on hand. Boston will have a strong team at the games, including Gidney, the high jumper; William Shaw, the shot putter; Hall, Leavitt, the hurdler, and Frank G. Sheehan, the middle-distance runner.

LOST HIS ROLL IN FAKE BOUT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—John Willie, a heavyweight prize fighter, who has ambitious aspirations, were wrecked by a flight with Jack Root, the pugilist, from Chicago to-day from Denver with Walter Ross, the sawdust wrestler, after gaining money by means of a confidence game.

Ross, Lieutenant Little, the complainant, declares that Nolan, Willie and another fighter named Clarence Chas swindled him out of $175 at Cripple Creek, Lowell, several months ago by means of a fake fight. Willie is alleged to have "doped" in the third round of the fight and took fighters and Nolan divided the coin won from him. Case is still at liberty.

NILES AGAIN WINS.

The tournament to decide the lawn championship of Niles was settled by a match between Niles and Capital. Niles, by the score of 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-0, wrested the championship from its captain on Jarvis Field.

WALTER CAMP COACHES YALE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 24.—With Walter Camp on the line to inspire faster work the Yale kickers put in a long hard practice, devoting their time chiefly to offensive work.

The regulars scored three times, once from midfield and twice from the scrubs' twenty-five-yard line, but on the last occasion they were in reality held on downs and given their score through the aid of an odd down. Forward passes and on-side kicks were in general discouraged, and the gains were made by the aid of heavy line-forcing backs.

Henry Hobbs, formerly Dartmouth's guard, scored the touchdown against the varsity. When Quarterback Jones tried to pass to Alcott, out at end, Hobbs seized the ball, broke through the line and by sizzling up two varsity men, ran for a touchdown.

Wheaton, the injured halfback, made his reappearance with his leg in a cast, but it is by no means certain that he can play again this season. The practice lasted twenty-five minutes, the longest in just a week.

DARTMOUTH TO TRY NEW PLAYS

HANOVER, Oct. 24.—The Dartmouth men will spring several new plays on the Amherst team Saturday and if moves carried out successfully behind closed gates.

Coach O'Connor considers the Amherst game one of the hardest on the schedule, and the team has done rather unsatisfactory work all the week.

Woodland and Bankart are out of the practice for the rest of the week. It is probable, however, they will play in the Amherst game.

The scrimmage resulted in one score for the scrub. Kane, who played on New Hampshire State last year, ran the second team well, getting off some excellent forward passes.

JAY GOULD'S TEAM WON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Jay Gould's Columbia Freshmen beat the Sophomores in a hard game at Van Cortlandt Park to-day by a score of 6 to 0.

BELLEDEU READY TO RACE CHASE AGAINST MACK MACK ON SPEEDWAY

Al. Ray lost his first race in the Fall-ohlist series of matinees at Charles River Speedway yesterday. The pacing gelding is owned and driven by M. J. Purbush, but in each heat the contest was a very pretty one from start to finish. The time was good, 1.02½, 1.02.

E. B. Phillips, owner of Al. Ray, was not at all discouraged by the result of the race, and will be right on hand to tackle the Newton representative in the next two matinees of the Metropolitan Driving Club. He is thinking seriously of giving Ray to Canada and racing him on the ice in the Winter.

Walter J. Bates gained all kinds of praise from his fellow members in winning two good races, one with his pacing mare Emma J. and the other with Miss Emma J. In the first instance he dropped a heat to Fred Bellows with Louise B., but in Bingham he took the next heat of the life, the finish of the second heat being so close that only the judges could tell which had passed the wire in the lead, he or Hollman.

Graves Not Taking Chances.

President C. E. Belledeu of the Mets was age the Marine any more because he was as tight as a drum. Gee whiz, only last week Joe Humphreys threw the deep sea diver aside because the latter wanted nothing but easy marks. Looks like a hard world for Burke.

"They say that Tom Sharkey is tight with his coin," said Marshall, "but on the level he's a spendthrift when you compare him with Burke. I went to Philadelphia and New Haven to get him matches but when I asked for a few expenses he almost fainted. He wanted me to go West with him and when I said draw $2000 out of the bank and we'll start, he let out an awful yell. He proposed that if he didn't get a fight we wouldn't lose anything.

"Jim Shortell agreed to manage him, you know, and Jim couldn't stand it. Burke used to ride over to Brooklyn to see Jim and he'd lend to walk a little ordered a sandwich and then when he saw Shortell had an expense account all written out—carfare 10 cents, sandwich 10 cents, shave 10 cents, shine 10 cents.

"Shortell piped the account and asked what it was.

"'Way that's my expenses, of course, I had to eat while I was waiting for you.'

"'Well, here,' said Shortell, 'you and your account screw out of here and never come back.' He never did.

"I don't mind a guy saving a little, but Burke gives me the dizzy on every nickel he counts than he does about his right eye. He's too much for me."

Dave Barry tells on "Brittle Arm" Britt that is almost as good. When Britt was training to meet Willie Fitzgerald in Frisco some years ago he needed a sparring partner and sent for Barry. At that time Dave was making three bucks a day in the iron works, and asked if he would get $100 for the month's training.

"Oh, you'll get any amount," said the Britt messenger. "Jimmy is a good fellow and he'll give you $250 anyway."

Dave went over and worked like a horse for Britt for a fortnight, and pounded him on the night of the fight. In the second round Fitz dropped Britt like a sack of coal in the bulkhaloo between the referee and Kelly rushed the sport Britt and Barry in his corner, and they got away with it. Britt managed to go the full limit, and was given the decision.

A letter of thanks to Barry and enclosed a check for $50.

Two great events happened yesterday. Sam Berger was appointed boxing instructor in the University of California, and Percy Plecke was appointed to the same position of honor in the Holland High School.

COOPER A. C. HAS FINE MAIN BOUT

There is a great deal of discussion going on in sporting circles over the result of the bout next Monday at the Cooper Club, when Kenny Glover will be seen against Dave Deshler, the Cambridge whirlwind. The excellence of this card, where even sparring will be seen, and where no fancy side-stepping will waste time, has evidently appealed to the club members, because there has been a steady stream pay-ing since the match was announced.

Glover is a formidable foe for any lightweight now in this country. He is a worker with either hand, hits like a mule kicking and is game as a pebble. In Deshler he is facing the toughest man that he has ever tackled, yet he is confident that he will do well in the end order.

Two excellent "preliims" precede the main bout, and the show will start promptly at 8 p. m.

MORAN MAY MEET NEIL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—Alex. Greggains has given up all hopes of arranging a Packy McFarland match with Joe Gans and has turned his attention to a meeting between Owen Moran, the English featherweight champion, and Frankie Neil.

Coffroth is a friend of Charley Harvey, the New York manager, who managed Moran and other English lads, and Harvey has asked Coffroth to arrange something for Moran at this end.

CHISHOLM WANTS BOUTS.

Young Chisholm of Everett, one of the best of the local bantams, has found that other boys in his class refuse to be afraid of his game and he wants to keep busy. He is anxious to hook up with Young Cahill or Kid Ashtease.

SHUTE AND PRIOR TO-NIGHT.

In the seventh game of the class B billiard tournament at the Imperial Palace Worcester defeated Webster, 200 to 185. Shute and Prior will play to-night.

CADET CAPTAIN PRAISES YALE

Captain Rodney Smith of West Point thinks that Yale's eleven is a quarter stronger than last year's. He wrote to the New York News as follows: "This year's Yale team is intrinsically more powerful by at least one-fourth than that of 1906. They have a far stiffer defense and more cohesive team work. Most certainly, however, they are not as quick in seizing opportunities of taking quick advantage. Take, for example, Erwin's opponent. He should not have allowed the ball to cover those punts in such fashion but once. Outside of that, Erwin played a magnificent game, for I never saw a man charge more fiercely. Dudley at center is big, has the head and aggressive centre I have seen in some time. The Yale attack is much more diverse and varied than last year, and her one defence been one whit less active and sharp, we would have been snowed under. As it was, we never gave you a chance to get your attack fairly under way. A fumble on the line you were far from last year's standard. I think that Yale's main fault is lack of experience. What it needed most it got in the West Point game, namely a severe trying out."

WALTHAM TEAM ON PROBATION

The present indications are that the much talked of Boston Latin-Waltham High game will never take place. Several players on the Waltham eleven it seems have been neglecting their studies with the result that they have been put on probation which prohibits them from playing football. If these men do not take a brace at their studies Waltham will be minus a football team.

WORCESTER'S DOG SHOW ATTRACTS GREAT CROWD

WORCESTER, Oct. 24.—Promptly at 10 o'clock this morning the doors of Mechanic Hall were thrown open to the public and the first day of the dog show in the city "was on." Long before that hour hundreds of dog fanciers and breeders from all parts of the country had formed in line ready to enter the exhibition hall as soon as the portals were pulled apart. All through hundreds of people filed into the hall, looked over the kennels and asked all kinds of questions about the dogs that were on exhibition, and by noon it concluded to-morrow afternoon.

All told there were more than 400 entries and the spacious hall was taxed to its utmost capacity for floor room. In one of the entry list inquires two points to exhibitors in all breed toward championships, as the show is held under American Kennel Club rules. Dog breeders from New York, Philadelphia, Boston and other cities in this section have sent along their "blue ribboners."

Well-Known Exhibitors.

Among the women fanciers who have lodged dogs for the show are Mrs. E. H. Seagrave, president of the Ladies' Kennel Club of Massachusetts; Miss Fannie Brooks, vice-president; Miss Alice Hemenway of Brookwell of Newport, Miss Margaret Brigham, South Framingham; Miss Ethel Wellesley; Miss Bertha White, Providence; Mrs. Fiske Hanes, Coldridge; Mrs. Rowe Hunt, Dedham; Mrs. Frederick Bowditch, Boston, and Mrs. H. W. Clark, Newport, who has the finest line of toy spaniels in the world.

The entry list shows that 147 Boston terriers, 40 spaniels, 29 collies, 23 French bulldogs, 18 Irish terriers, 20 Scotch terriers, 14 toy spaniels, 14 English bulldogs, 6 St. Bernards, 7 fox terriers, 2 dalmations, 2 Russian wolfhounds, 2 greyhounds, 10 pointers, 11 setters, 4 dachshunds, 2 poodles, 4 pomeranians, 6 Yorkshire terriers and 7 beagles have been listed.

Judges at Work.

Members of the kennel club in the city planned parties to the show and a number of them saw exhibitors show their dogs in the ring for points. During the day the judges awarded the ribbons and they will conclude their labors to-morrow afternoon.

Thomas W. Lawson sent from his farm "Dreamwold" a string of fine canines, and Mrs. Arnold Lawson has entered her French bulldogs.

TIGER'S CREW CHALLENGED

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—Princeton received her first rowing challenge to-day since the new era in aquatics was begun on Lake Carnegie. Georgetown is the challenger. In a letter which came to the rowing association the Georgetown management spoke of the friendly rivalry which exists between the two universities and said that they would like to be the first to meet the Tigers on the water. It was suggested that the race be held on the Potomac next Spring.

Nothing definite could be learned here to-night regarding the challenge, but the advisory board on rowing will take action as soon as it meets. What the decision will be is unknown, though there seems to be little chance of Princeton accepting this year.

GOOD BOUT AT EAST BOSTON

The members of the reorganized Faneuil Hall A. C. of East Boston are assured of a fine entertainment on Friday night, when Freddy O'Brien of Chelsea and Tommy Rawson of East Boston meet. These two boys are capable of putting up one of the fastest bouts that could be arranged, and as an opener for the club the card could not be better.

The club members are only assessed $1 for the privilege of attending and to watch such a clever pair of mitt artists. Preliminary bouts, wrestling contests and other features will enhance the card. Secretary Joe Wheaton can be located at 23 Meridian street, East Boston.

ROXBURY STORAGE SALESROOMS WHERE PIANOS ARE SACRIFICED

Fighting the Piano Trust

The name "Piano Trust" sounds big, but is generally applied to a number of small piano dealers. They wouldn't have to fight if they would agree to a fair arrangement. We have a fighting proposition to make to piano buyers—straight and actually disinterested. Big Piano Trust representatives, look out for this. Piano Trust representatives, look out for this. We believe that we are making no money doing it but we are still in the piano business. We have a number of high-grade pianos, sets or scarred at prices that make the big Piano Trust wince.

HERE, a massive tag is slapped on to it, behold its grade, low grade or middle grade, and it is sold in the first hour or minute that wants it for the price marked on the tag—not a cent more or less. The tag is made on the Roxbury Storage Piano Plan and the reduction is figured to the uttermost cent, clean and clear. Don't let the salesman tell you you can get nearly as much for them as these sale mark-down prices. Somebody's loss is your gain.

A Piano Sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a mark-down sale. The very nature of the business, as the public knows, is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular Piano store. Down here, where they are expected to make a profit on each piano they sell, we don't get that PROFIT during the sale and piano, for short let any piano here, and you will get the benefit of the big Piano Salesroom—it counts in DOLLARS.

YOU CAN'T DISCOURAGE A SPIDER

He Has Two Splendid Qualities—INDUSTRY and DETERMINATION

Every woman who takes care of her own house knows that the determined little spider, hanging his wonderful webs in every corner, is not to be discouraged.

She may sweep him and his cobwebs from her ceiling corners every day, but the next day he is busily making more, spinning with wonderful patience the fine silken ropes from inside him and deftly running them from one corner to another, till he has made a structure equal to the Brooklyn Bridge as an engineering feat, and more beautiful than any creation of wood or steel that man can make.

When the big broom, which he has come to regard as his implacable foe, appears he backs away into a corner, and watches gloomily while his web is destroyed.

He is doubtless annoyed and impatient. The broom he regards as an awful implement of destruction, wielded by some ruthless being who has no other object in life than to tear down what others build up, merely to satisfy a passing whim.

But as soon as the broom has vanished, and enough time has passed to make it probable that this day's work of the monster is done, he comes out of his corner, inspects the ground and promptly begins another web.

This he will continue to do as long as he has any line in his factory. When the supply is exhausted he must wait until a fresh supply can be manufactured, which he does with much impatience and with very ill grace.

To the spider his web means a great deal—as much as the tools to a carpenter, the net to a fisherman, or the great factory or business house or railroad from which the business man gets his livelihood.

But when it is suddenly swept away he wastes no time bemoaning his fate, blackguarding his enemies or crying out pathetically that he hasn't had a fair chance, and can't be expected to do anything against such heavy odds.

He merely goes to work AND BUILDS HIS WEB AGAIN, shifting to a new place each time, and KEEPS ON BUILDING, till he finds some spot beyond the reach of the broom, where he can begin his trade of gathering in flies.

Notice the spiders you see glowering by their webs or scurrying across the floor, and you will see that they are all fat, strong, and apparently in the best of health.

The quality of determination counts. Despite the spider's hard luck he gets his living out of a world that is peopled with his enemies—gets a fairly good living, and has as good a time as it is granted to spiders to have.

A man who can do as much as that is unusually fortunate.

But men, unluckily, are not always gifted with DETERMINATION.

Even the industrious are often very easily discouraged—very likely to think they are victims of fate or are conspired against. Nothing is easier than to give up, after three or four failures. Nothing is easier than to make up your mind you CANNOT do anything important or worth while, and so settle into a little narrow rut, watching others outstrip you, with a dull resignation which is foolishly mistaken for wise philosophy.

Determination in a character prevents discouragement—prevents the loss of self-respect that might come with repeated failure.

The spider is deserving of no praise for possessing it, for he gets it by instinct, which he inherits.

Many human beings are born determined—grow up with a will that is not to be denied, and as if by instinct insist on getting what they want until other men come to believe that it is only right to give it to them.

But any one can CULTIVATE DETERMINATION. Even the weakest willed of creatures can rise above failure and discouragement, and KEEP ON TRYING till he gets some kind of success.

Most people have to begin by conquering laziness; the average human being is just as lazy as HE DARES TO BE, but fully as necessary as habits of industry is the settled purpose to do what you have started out to do, despite all the bad luck that may come to turn that purpose aside.

Driving the Crows from the Cornfield

The act of the New York Clearing House Committee in driving the pyrotechnic speculators from the control of the banks is one of the incidents that promote faith in the business sense and conscience of the men who govern the financial affairs of this country.

As long as such men as Charles W. Morse, E. R. Thomas and F. Augustus Heinze could use the deposits of the banks of which they have possessed themselves by the sleight-of-hand performances that are known as "high finance" the country was exposed to the danger of the worst sort of commercial crisis. Now that danger is past. The depositor has a reasonable assurance that his funds are not being put up as chips on the gambling table where one individual or group of financial desperadoes is trying to thwart the equally predatory schemes of another.

As long as these men could buy the shares of a bank and hypothecate them for control of another, and so on indefinitely, the deposits of these banks were at their mercy. They were the judges of the collateral on which money should be advanced, and to substitute their own wildcat stocks, or the shares in whatever desperate venture they were floating, for the substantial assets of the banks was only a matter of bookkeeping.

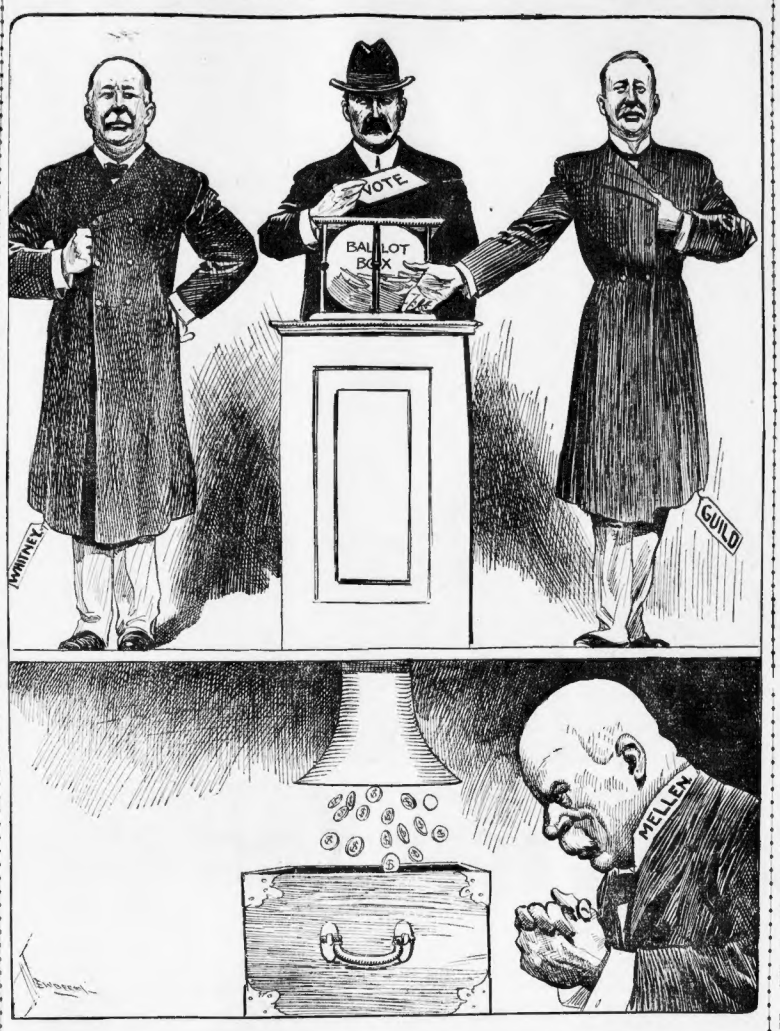
In this way the fortunes of the most conservative business men in the world—men who would no more speculate than they would sell "green goods"—were the markers of the wildest games of speculation Wall Street has ever known.

The game of promoting or demolishing speculative corporations; of attempting to corner this stock or that; of operating an ice famine, as Mr. Morse did, or performing such financial flip-flaps as Mr. Thomas did in connection with the Seventh National Bank, was a tempting one, particularly when the operators were able to gamble with other people's money, so that in the event of success they got all the profits, and in the event of disaster the ruin would fall on others.

However, the Clearing House Committee, backed up by public opinion, has stopped this sort of thing.

They had no legal power to make a man resign as president of a solvent bank, but they had what is always more potent in the end—the power of a united public opinion to compel righteousness; and before that power the privateers of finance humbly submitted and retired.

A Vote for Either Makes Dollars for Mellen



When a voter casts a ballot for Governor on State election day, he should pause to think what his vote is going to be counted for in the end—whether for good government or for transmutation into Merger dollars to slip into the hands of President Mellen of the New Haven road and his Standard Oil bosses.

If the voter looks on one hand and sees plausible Henry M. Whitney, or on the other hand and sees smug Curtis M. Guild, Jr., he ought to also have in mind the fact that the chief pillar of the platform which supports both is Mellen. HE approves of BOTH CANDIDATES because he knows that EITHER would sign a Merger bill.

Mellen wants either one of them elected Governor because to him the ballot box is like a crucible into which an ancient alchemist would pour base metal in the hope it would eventually turn into gold. But he is hoping in this modern instance that the paper ballots will come out in the form of Merger stock certificates.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad is controlled by Standard Oil, and that Trust got possession of enough Boston & Maine stock months ago to make it, by transference to the interests it commands, the present owner of both lines.

The Merger is already a fact, so far as ownership is concerned, and what Mellen and his associates are hoping for is a Governor who can be relied upon to aid in getting the Legislature to make their unlawful act a legal one. Then Mellen and the Standard Oil can proceed to coin money out of the Merger stock.

When a voter drops a Whitney or a Guild vote into the ballot box he is voting money into the coffers of Standard Oil and the New Haven road's president. For every Massachusetts vote polled for either Whitney or Guild, the men behind the Merger hope to get hundreds of dollars.

If voters looked as far into the future as Mellen does, very few would be so lacking in a sense of public duty as to vote for either of the Merger candidates.

Since Whitney has said he is for the Merger, and as he is the man who did the most to betray small stockholders and the shippers and travellers of New England by selling out the Boston & Maine to the New Haven road, EVERYBODY KNOWS he would sign a Merger bill if elected Governor.

Although Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican boss of Massachusetts, has admitted that the Merger is a political issue, nobody has heard Governor Guild say publicly what he is going to do to prevent the State from being put into the clutches of a transportation monopoly.

But Mellen is sure that Governor Guild will do in 1908 all that Standard Oil wants him to do in perpetuating the crime against the Boston & Maine and the people who ship goods or travel over its rails.

So sure of that is Mellen that he even says he PREFERS GUILD TO WHITNEY, although the latter was his CHIEF AGENT in getting possession of the Boston & Maine stock.

Essays of Little Bobby—By William F. Kirk

COOKING is where you take meet & potatoes & milk them soft & nice to eet. It is of two kinds. 1. Plain cooking. 2. Fancy cooking.

Plain cooking is the kind we git at hom where everyone sets around the table & gits al they can befour it is gone. At our house we have plain cooking, my ma does it & I help wash the dishes.

We had sum plain cooking last nite, my Pa got hom about eight (8) o'clock & everything was cold but Pa dident care, he dident care for anything last nite, he set down at the tabel & sed Well, dear littel wife & children, here we are all together once mour. Yes, Ma sed, I am all together & the children is all together but I guess you arent quite together the way you look.

Perish the thought, my Pa sed, I am setting among my littel flock, where every true man shud be, breaking bred with the people who are the dearest in all this world to me. Please pash the musk, I mean pass the mush, Pa sed.

Ma passed the mush & it was cold & Pa was just going to kick but when he saw Ma's eye he sed, I like it that way, cold mush is vary nurrishing.

Fancy cooking is what thay have at the hotels, the things like mushrooms & chicken livers etc. We never have that bekaus Pa says it is always better to dwell in the hoam where thare is no tips for waiters & no sixty (60) cents for ten (10) cents worth of asparagus.

Vary true, vary true, sed Ma. Let us both try to save, me on the asparagus and you on the Park Row drinks, Ma sed. Why, dearest, Pa sed, you know I never take drinks on Park Row, & Ma sed Well Maybe I got the pain of the row a littel bit wrong. That's all I can think of about cooking.

How to Get Rid of Fear

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

DO you know what is the meaning of the word Paranoiac? It means a monomaniac on some one subject. A person who is sane on all subjects save one; and the modern use of the word paranoiac applies particularly to one who is obsessed with the idea of persecution in some form.

A very highly gifted, highly educated, widely traveled woman of my acquaintance has paranoia in an advanced state. It is impossible for her to converse ten minutes without telling you she is under police surveillance.

She believes that jealous rivals in her especial line of art are following her about with detectives in order to prevent her from the success which she knows would be hers, were she quite free to do as she wishes.

A few of her friends tried to interest her in conversation one day to such an extent that she would not refer to her pet mania. We induced her to tell stories of her travels, and of the famous people she had known, and to divert her mind from detectives and police officers, but right in the midst of her most interesting conversation she would interpolate a police officer in full uniform. A ring at the door, and she started with a knowing look, saying: "There! a detective is at your door this instant! I saw one when I came down the street, and knew he had preceded me here, although I kept my coming secret."

Her case is an extreme one, and will eventually drive all other ideas from her mind.

Sad, you say? But how about yourself? Have you any symptoms of paranoia?

What Is Your Pet Fear?

THE question makes you indignant; but stop a bit and consider.

Have you no pet fear?

Do you not oftimes think fate has boycotted you?

Do you not frequently say when things go wrong: "That is just my luck?"

If you imagine it is your luck to have things go wrong, then you are in the early stage of paranoia.

You have the monomania that you are selected by fate to be a failure, and that inanimate objects and unforeseen events are constantly imposed before you, to prevent you from doing what you desire.

That is paranoia.

Do you think your friends neglect you, and that you are slighted and looked down upon? That is only another form of the same disease.

The time to arrest this disease is in the very beginning. It is one of the most subtle and insidious of all ailments, if left to feed itself upon disordered fancies.

Take yourself in hand right now.

"Get thee behind me, Satan," is a very good command to give this obsessing idea.

Drive Out Ill Luck

DRIVE out the thought that you are unlucky, by constant assertions that you are good luck, success, achievement and opulence.

Drive out the idea that you are neglected and unappreciated by the assertions that you are love, friendship, usefulness, popularity and power.

Fill yourself with the consciousness that you are the Expression of Divine Love, and that whatever there is in the universe that you desire belongs to you.

No one and nothing can take it from you but yourself.

Fear nothing and nobody.

Expect the very best to happen, and whatever happens be sure it is the very best, however bad it may seem at first. Say every day:

"This is Love's supreme decree.
Only good can come to me."

This is a cure, and a sure cure, for paranoia. But begin right away to apply the cure.

A Tutor for Kings

By C. B. Quincy

The German Crown Prince is to learn the workings of the great departments of state.

YOUD think they were fooling, a prince to need schooling
In running the country he'll one day be ruling!
Poor Europe, condemned to such sad mollycoddles,
They have to have wisdom stuffed into their noddies.
We're luckier here—our boss would look queer
With a tutor directing his brotherless spear.
His own every act is, the evident fact is
He knows without learning and rules without practice.
What object in stewing and fussing and swinking
Over custom and law, when one acts without thinking?
And, anyway, where's the department or college
Equipped with the requisite bunches of knowledge—
To tell when a pilot is risking his ship
By making a slip on the wide Mississippi?
To know that a wolf, though he bristles with teeth,
Can't kill a bull moose with a bite from beneath;
To know just the method to baffle a trust,
And toast bread in a camp without burning the crust;
To dope out by instinct the way to restrain
The railroads from rebates and babies from pain;
To talk lyrics to poets and drama to actors
And terrible threats to the rich male factors;
To denounce as a liar the man who's so foolish,
Because he is right, to dispute and be mulish;
To regulate football; meet bishops at tennis;
Give rough riders jobs and lecture on Venice;
To box, and to ride over walls in a stride
(Jumping over the poor Constitution beside);
From railroads to storks—knowing all of these things,
And shaming those weaklings, the princes and kings?
